Scottish: (i) occupational name said to be from the rare Middle English term flokker 'shepherd', which is however not recorded in the Older Scots tongue. The predominant spellings with -u-, besides those with -o-, point rather to a derivative of Middle English and Older Scottish flake (Old English flōc) 'flat fish' (especially the flounder) + -er, perhaps a term for a fisherman specialising in the catching of flat fish. Black notes that this was 'an old surname in Fife' and 'a not uncommon one among the fisherfolk of Newhaven near Edinburgh'. (ii) alternatively it may be a variant of Fulcher (Middle English Fulcher, Fulker, Folker) with metathesis of l. See also Flockhart and Folkard, with which the surname probably become confused. Compare the following, all appearing as entries in IGI for the parish of Inveresk with Musselburgh, Midlothian: Marion Flocard (1684), Jean Folkard (1687), and Agnes Fluker (1813). With Jeane Fluker (1604) compare Janet Fluckard, 1680, both in IGI entries for Edinburgh.

English: (i) of uncertain origin. The following examples suggest that it might be a variant of Fowke (or Folke), or vice versa, but the co-existence of the two names may be mere coincidence. Compare Edward Fogge (1583) with Thomas Folke, (1638) in IGI (Great Yarmouth, Norfolk); Ann Fogg (1613) and Anthony Fog (1655) with Elizabeth Fowke (1617), all in IGI (Wirksworth, Derbys); Peter Fogg (1814) with Walter Fowke (1894) in IGI (Bowdon, Cheshire); Fanny Fogg, (1822) with Charles Fowke (1854) in IGI (Walton on the Hill, Lancs). Also compare Foggett (earlier Foggard), which may have been shortened to Fogg. (ii) alternative derivation from Middle English fogge 'aftermath' (i.e. grass left to grow after the hay has been cut, also applied to long grass in a water meadow) is formally possible, especially in N England, where the term occurs as a specifying element in minor place-names, but as it is not found on its own as a simplex name, the derivation is doubtful without some supporting evidence.

- Current frequencies: GB 132, Ireland 0

Norman, English: (i) relationship name probably a variant of Folkard, from the Old French personal name Folcard, Folcart. With assimilation of lk to (k/k) this became Fockard in S Scotland. Voicing of ck to g(g) would account for Foggard, Foggart, Foggett in England. The 1540 bearer of the name Fogarte, from Selby in WR Yorks, may have been a descendant of Rogerus filius Folkart, 1219 in Assize Rolls (Yorks). However, the epicentre of the modern surname is not WR Yorks but Northumb and Durham, where the relevant medieval source may be a branch of the Normano-Scottish family attested in the names of William Folkard, 1294 in Kelso Register (Roxburghs), and Thomas Fowcard, 1464 in Scotland Calendar. (ii) In NE England the only potential medieval evidence for the name is Middle English (Old French) Fuket or Foket (in 1377 example). This is a diminutive of Old French Fouke (see Fowke), itself a pet form of various Old French personal names beginning with Folc-, including Folcard. With intervocalic voicing of k to g, Foket would have developed to Foggett. It seems likely that Folcard, possibly reinforced by its pet form Foket, was the source of Foggett in NE England. The name is rare elsewhere in England, except in Norfolk and Suffolk, where Fog(g)et(t), Foggard, Folkard, Focard, Foket, and Fuket are all recorded.

Further information: Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames notes that in the 1700s Foggett was sometimes confused with Froggatt

- Main GB location 1881: London; Dorset and Devon; Staffs; Lancs

English: nickname from Middle English foun, faun (Old French foun, faon) 'young animal, cub', especially 'young fallow deer, a fawn'. Foun and Faun were interchangeable. Peter le Foun, 1300 in Subsidy Rolls (2 knight's fees in Tuxford, Notts) is identical with Peter Faune, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Tuxford and Markham, Notts). However, Foun and Faun developed a different family name distribution; see Fawn. Like Faun, Fo(u)n may possibly have been used as a personal name.

Further information: Because of the difficulty of distinguishing u from n in old handwriting it is impossible to be sure that some early examples of Foune should not be read as Fonne, which would be a nickname from Middle English fon(ne) 'fool, stupid person'. However it is doubtful whether this would give rise to the modern surnames Fone and Foan, which have a long vowel. The names may, however, have been confused.

Early bearers: John Foun, 1180 in Pipe Rolls (Notts/Derbys); Oliver le Foun, 1279 in Okeover Deeds (Staffs); Richard le Foun, 1299 in Assize Rolls (Staffs); Alicia Fone, 1377 in Poll Tax (Derby, Derbys); Johannes Foune, 1379 in Poll Tax (Godshill and Stenbury, IoW); Isabella Fonne (Foune?), 1381 in Poll Tax (Downham Market, Norfolk); Margerie Fone, 1577, John Fonne (Foune?) 1648 in IGI (Rocester, Staffs); Thos Fone, 1632 in IGI (Powerstock, Dorset); Mary Foan, 1671 in IGI (Trusley, Derbys); Anthony Foane, 1707 in IGI (Crewkerne, Somerset); Elizabeth Foan, 1735 in IGI (Fordington, Dorset).

1 English: nickname perhaps from Middle English for(e)ward, forthward ‘agreement, contract, pledge’. This would explain the variation in the 1377 and 1381 Wilts names. It might have been given to someone who negotiated agreements or who acted as a pledge for another person. Some of the following early bearers may alternatively belong with (2) or (3).

Early bearers: Bartholomew Forward, Forreward, 1279 in Hundred Rolls (Cambs); Florenci Forewardes, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Clacton, Essex); John Foreward, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Hampnett, Gloucs); Willelmus Foreward, 1377 in Poll Tax (Donhead, Wilts); Johannes Forthward, 1377, Johannes Foreward, 1381 in Poll Tax (West Knoyle, Wilts); Christophorus Forward, 1379 in Poll Tax (Lonsdale wapentake, Lancs); Willelmo Forward, 1379 in Poll Tax (Sedgehill, Wilts); Johanne Forward, 1381 in Poll Tax (Chedworth, Gloucs); Thom. 2 English: perhaps sometimes a metathesized form of Middle English froward, fraward ‘contrary, unruly, wilful, perverse’; see Frewer and compare Froud. In one manuscript of the Cursor Mundi (dated before 1400), Ur fraward scapp ‘our contrary (awkward or ugly) shape’ is replaced by Ur forward schap.

3 English: nickname alternatively from Middle English for(e)ward ‘forward, advanced’. It is not until the 16th century that the word is recorded meaning ‘ready, eager’, ‘precocious’, ‘presumptuous, pert’, but perhaps it already had some of these senses in Middle English.

Fothergill

• Current frequencies: GB 2056, Ireland 5
 • GB frequency 1881: 1716
 • Main GB location 1881: N England; esp. Westm English; locative name of uncertain origin. Redmonds tentatively suggests it might be an altered form of Faggergill in Arkengarthdale (NR Yorks). This is recorded as Fagardegile ('sheep enclosure ravine?') in 1280, and was presumably the home of Robert de Fagardgill, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Yorks). Arkengarthdale, in Upper Swaledale, is not far from Kirkby Stephen, just over the county border in Westm, where the earliest example of Fothergill (spelled Fothergall) is found in 1379. The long-standing social network that existed between Upper Swaledale and Kirkby Stephen families is illustrated by the marriage in 1663 in Grinton parish church of 'William Harrison and Alice Fothergill of Mallerstang in the parish of Kirby Stephen' (Parish Registers, Grinton, NR Yorks). Grinton was formerly the parish for the whole of Upper Swaledale, and its 17th-century registers contain numerous instances of the surname as Fothergill and Futhergill, as well as Jane Fathergill (buried 1640). If this is the correct origin, obscure Fagard- has been replaced by Middle English fother, futher 'cart-load', 'measure of weight used in selling lead'; Upper Swaledale and Arkengarthdale were areas of sheep farming and lead mining during the high Middle Ages and subsequent centuries. However, there is no evidence that the place-name was ever referred to as Fothergill.

Further information: Wilson's derivation from Fothergill Well in Hetton (WR Yorks) is most unlikely since this minor place-name is not recorded until 1840, and as Redmonds points out, is very likely derived from the surname. DAFN suggests derivation from Fothergill in Flimby (Cumb). This may be the place in Flimby known in the 12th century as Folchegile, Folkegile, and Fowgill, but this name would not naturally develop to Fothergill, and as there are no later spellings on record, the change to Fothergill may be modern and influenced by the surname.
Early bearers: Johanne de Fothergall, 1379 in Poll Tax (Kirkby Stephen with Mallerstang, Westm); Henry Fodyrgyll, 1514 in Coroners' Rolls (Notts); Isabell Fothergill, 1562, John Fothergell, 1618, Robert Futhergell, 1623 in IGI (Bedale, NR Yorks); John Fothergill, 1572 in IGI (Ravenstonedale, Westm); Agnes Fothergill, 1573 in IGI (Manby, Lincs); Thoms. Fothergill, 1582 in IGI (Halifax, WR Yorks); William Futhergill, 1583, John Fothergill, 1611 in York Freeman's Register (York); Willm. 1 Norman, English, Irish: locative name from one of the places in Normandy called La Feuillie (Latin folia + -ata 'leafy place, wood'), either in Seine-Maritime or Manche. According to MacLysaght, it has been established in Ireland since the 13th century, at first in Dublin, later in Leix.

Early bearers: Henry de Foyle, 1249 in Assize Rolls (Wilts); Ralph Foil, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Somerset); Johanne Foyl, 1379 in Poll Tax (Donhead, Wilts); Rycharde Foyle, 1568 in IGI (Barnstaple, Devon); Anne Foyle, 1623 in IGI (Tisbury, Wilts).

2 Norman, English: locative name from Foyle Farm in Oxted (Surrey), recorded as Foyllye, la Foily in 1418.

Further information: A name of French origin, La Foyl(y)e was partially anglicized as the Foyl(y)e, as the surname forms show. Place-Names of Surrey, p. 333, derives the name from Old French fouille 'excavation'. While this is formally possible, there is no evidence for the term in Middle English or as a place-name in N France. More likely it has the same origin and meaning as (1) and was given by an owner of Norman descent, perhaps in imitation of one of the places called La Feuillie in Normandy.

Early bearers: John atte Foyle, 1312 in Place-Names of Surrey (Oxted, Surrey); Dionis' ate Foilly, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Surrey); Margaret Foyle, 1592 in IGI (Sandwich, Kent); Rachell Foyle, 1559 in IGI (Saint Andrew by the Wardrobe, London).

References: Place-Names of Surrey, p. 333.

3 Welsh, English: (i) perhaps an anglicized form of Voyle (1); compare also Moyle (2). It could be an English spelling pronunciation of Welsh Foel or Foyl (pronounced /voil/ in Welsh), or it might be an English substitution of English /f/ for /v/, a hypercorrection of words and names where /f/ is voiced to /v/ in western dialects of English, such as vox for fox. (ii) alternatively the post-medieval early bearers in the list below may belong with (1), with occasional voicing of /f/ to /v/ in Shrops dialect.

Early bearers: Eynon Voil, 1292 in Morgan and Morgan; Lewelinum Voyl ab Yginon ab lewelin, 1294 in Morgan and Morgan; Zereward Voyl, 1295 in Morgan and Morgan; Richard Foyle, 1565 in IGI (Sidbury, Shrops); Nicolas Voyle, 1598, Nicolas Foile, 1606 in Parish Registers (Sidbury, Shrops); John Foile, 1637 in IGI (Bridgnorth, Shrops).

- GB frequency 1881: 26509

Scottish: origin uncertain. The earliest recorded forms of this family name, dating from the mid 12th century, are de Fresel, de Friselle, and de Freseliere. These appear to be Norman, but there is no place in France with a name answering to them. It is possible, therefore, that they represent a Gaelic name corrupted beyond recognition by Anglo-Norman scribes. The modern Gaelic form is Friseal, sometimes anglicized as Frizzell.

Further information: There are two clans Fraser in Scotland, with common ancestry going back to Simon Fraser of Keith in E Lothian, who lived in the 12th century. One of these clans has its seat at Philorth Castle (subsequently renamed Cairnbulg) on the NE coast of Scotland. Sir Alexander Fraser, 8th laird of Philorth (c. 1536–1623) converted the fishing village of Faithlie into the burgh of Fraserburgh in the 1590s. The other clan is Fraser of Lovat, associated mainly with the city of Inverness, and descended from Simon Fraser, a younger son, who lived in the early 14th century. In Gaelic, the head of Clan Fraser of Lovat is known as Mac Shimi 'son of Simon'.

Early bearers: Gilbert Freser, 1164–71 in Brinkburn Chartulary (Roxburgh, Roxburghs); Simon Fraser, 1182–95 in William I (Scotland) Charters (Traquair, Peebles); Bernard Fraser, 1195 in Saint Andrews Charters (Drem, East Lothian); James Fraser, 1596 in IGI (Edinburgh, Midlothian); Mette Fraser, 1596 in IGI (Monifieth, Angus); Dod. - English: of uncertain origin; apparently from an unidentified place in or near north-west Berks, formed with a name containing Old English frogga 'frog' + lēah 'woodland clearing'. However, no medieval forms have been found, and no such place-name has been noted in Berks or adjacent counties. There is a field name Froggiley in Foston and Scropton (Derbys), which is recorded as Froggeley in the 13th century, so we can at least be confident that the formation is plausible.

Froude

- GB frequency 1881: 830
- Main GB location 1881: S England: esp. Hants and Kent

1 English: nickname either from an unrecorded Middle English **frode* ‘wise, prudent’ (Old English frōd) or, possibly, from Middle English froude, frode, frude ‘frog, toad’ (compare Old Scandinavian frauð), though this is not a characteristically southern word. Some of the following post-medieval bearers may alternatively belong with (2), especially the Hants example.

Early bearers: Richard Frode, 1184 in Pipe Rolls (Devon); Siward Frode, 1187 in Pipe Rolls (Sussex); William Froud, about 1203 in Staffs Chartulary (Staffs); William le Frode, 1334 in Subsidy Rolls (Kent); Ricardus Frode, 1377 in Poll Tax (Orgarswick, Kent); Thomas Frode, 1491 in Feet of Fines (Alkham, Kent); Robert Frowde, 1525 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); John Frowde, 1545 in Subsidy Rolls (Wilts); John Froud, 1571 in IGI (Sidlesham, Sussex); William Froud, 1574, Peter Frood, 1586, Peter Frude, 1621 in IGI (Stoke in Teignhead, Devon); Julia Frodd, 1576 in IGI (Saint Mabyn, Cornwall); Josepheff Froode, 1581 in IGI (Boughton Aluph, Kent); Joseph Froud, 1588 in IGI (Boughton under Blean, Kent); Jo. Froad, 1611 in IGI (Bodmin, Cornwall); George Froud, 1629 in IGI (Andover, Hants).

2 English: nickname, sometimes a reduced form of Middle English froward, ‘contrary, wilful, unruly’. See Frewer. This name may, however, have been confused with (1).

Early bearers: John Frowarde, 1548, Rychi Frowde, 1549 in IGI (Kingsclere, Hants).

3 English: relationship name possibly from the Middle English personal name Frode (from Old Scandinavian Frōði, Frothi; the corresponding Old English Frōda is found only once, and Continental Germanic Frodo is rare). In Normandy Frodo may be Old Scandinavian (Feilitzen, p. 256); Frodo, 1086 in Domesday Book was a brother of the abbot of Bury Saint Edmunds and was genere Gallus. Although there is no clear evidence, the possibility that the personal name gave rise to a surname cannot be excluded.

Early bearers: given names: Frodo liber homo, 1086 in Domesday Book (Suffolk); Frodo prepositus, about 1115 in Bury Saint Edmunds Documents (Suffolk); Frode, 1296 in Wakefield Court Rolls (WR Yorks). surnames: Hugh filius Frodonis, 1121–48 in Bury Saint Edmunds Documents (Suffolk); Johan Froud, 1572 in IGI (Stoke in Teignhead, Devon); John Froud, 1622 in IGI (Romsey, Hants).

1 English, Scottish: nickname, occupational name sometimes from Middle English frere, frier 'brother, friend, comrade' (Old French frere), a sense certainly illustrated in the 1196–7 example. During the 13th century, however, the word increasingly denoted 'a member of one of the mendicant religious orders', the usual modern sense of the word friar. The first friars arrived in England in 1224. As with Abbot, Monk, Nunn, and Prior, late medieval use of Frere as a nickname was probably uncomplimentary, for by the mid-14th century the once popular friars had become a byword in satirical literature for self-indulgent, smooth-talking hypocrisy. Friars were not allowed to marry, but some of them probably fathered children (compare Frearson). After the Reformation former friars were free to marry, and one such is said to have been the progenitor of the Friars of Melrose parish, Roxburghs (see Black), an instance, if true, of post-medieval surname creation. Early bearers: England: Robert (le) Frere, 1196–7 in Pipe Rolls (Yorks); Roger le Frier, 1243 in Assize Rolls (Somerset); Roger le Frere, 1290–1303 in Lacock Charters (Wilts); Adam son of Hugh le Frere, 1297 in Wakefield Court Rolls (Sowerby, WR Yorks); Alanus Frere, 1297 in Subsidy Rolls (Towthorpe in Wharram Percy, ER Yorks); Thoma(s) Frere, 1301 in Subsidy Rolls (Pickhill, NR Yorks); Willelmo Frere, 1301 in Subsidy Rolls (Farndale, NR Yorks); Hugo le Frere, 1377 in Poll Tax (Bathampton, Wilts); Ricardus le Frere, 1377 in Poll Tax (Imber, Wilts); Rogerus le Frere, 1381 in Poll Tax (Cuerdley, Lancs); Agn' le Frer', 1381 in Poll Tax (Prestwich, Lancs); Christopher Freer, chaplain, 1493 in Feet of Fines (Lancs); George Freer, 1590 in IGI (Blaby, Leics); William Friar, 1623

Scotland: Master William Frere, archdeacon of Lothian, 1296 in Scotland Calendar; Adam Frer(e), 1296, 1304 in Scotland Calendar (Berwicks); [...] Freer, burgess of Selkirk, 1513–15 in Selkirks History; Archibald Freir, 1643 in IGI (Melrose, Roxburghs); Robert Frier, 1709 in IGI (Selkirk).
2 English: occupational name for someone who lived or worked at a friary (Middle English frere 'house of friars').

Early bearers: William del Frere, chaplain, 1357 in Feet of Fines (Lancs); Margareta del Frere, 1379 in Poll Tax (Kirkby Malzeard, WR Yorks); Ricardo at Frer', 1381 in Poll Tax (Bincombe, Somerset); Elizabeth Fryer, 1540 in IGI (North Elmham, Norfolk); Robert Fryer, 1541 in IGI (Canterbury, Kent); Agnes Fryer, 1542 in IGI (Arlingham, Gloucs); Roberti Fryer, 1543 in IGI (Thorndon, Suffolk); Anne Fryer, 1546 in IGI (West Tarring, Sussex).

English: (i) locative name, occupational name from Middle English atte freres, for someone who lived or worked, probably as a servant, 'at the friars' (Old French, Middle English frere 'brother, member of one of the religious mendicant orders'). Atte and of are often rendered by medieval clerks as Latin ad or Anglo-Norman French del. Compare Nunns and Parsons. (ii) a post-medieval variant of Fryer with excrescent -s.

- 1 English: occupational name from Middle English fuller 'fuller of cloth' (partly from Old English fullere, partly from Old French fouleur, foleur). Compare Fullen.

Further information: Raw cloth had to be fulled, i.e. scoured, cleansed, and thickened by beating or trampling it in water, a process also known as walking or tucking, hence the surnames Walker and

Tucker by the side of Fuller. These three terms and surnames are characteristic of different parts of England. In general, in Middle English, Fuller is southern and eastern, while Walker belongs to the west and north and Tucker is south-western.

Fransson, pp. 100–1, plausibly suggests that medieval examples of Fulur and Folour outside the eastern and south-eastern counties should be regarded as scribal translations into French of Walker or Tucker.

English: locative name from Middle English furlang, furlong ‘furlong’ (Old English furlang), the most common sense of which was ‘a division of land in an unenclosed arable field’, though it could also denote ‘a race course’, particularly for foot races. The surname is now common in Ireland, where it was established in Wexford in the 13th century.

Further information: Reaney’s dismissal of the sense ‘dweller by a furlong’ is unconvincing. His suggestion that the surname ‘may have been used of a runner famous for his exploits ‘in the forlong’ is highly speculative, but compare Furlonger (2).

English: nickname, possibly from Middle English **galop* (Old French galop) 'gallop' (the fastest pace of a horse) and given to one who habitually rode at speed, either through temperament or by occupation as a messenger. Although the English noun gallop is not documented until the 16th century, it may have existed earlier, since the corresponding verb is on record before 1425 in MED. However, the surname itself has not been found before the 16th century, so it may be a reduced form of Galpin (earlier Galopin), which has a very similar post-medieval distribution and original sense. The vowel change in Gollop for Gallop is paralleled in Golpin for Galpin, as in Michel Golpin, 1746 in IGI (Batcombe, Dorset).

Early bearers: William Golupe, 1563 in PROB 11 (Abbott Stoke, Dorset); Thomas Gallop, 1563 in IGI (Newtimber, Sussex); John Gallop, 1575 in IGI (Woodbury, Devon); Henricus Gollop, 1594 in IGI (Netherbury, Dorset); Richard Gollop, 1605 in PROB 11 (Abbotstoke, Dorset); Thomas Gallop, 1606 in IGI (West Harptree, Somerset); William Gallop, 1608 in PROB 11 (Saint Mary Church, Devon); Richard Gallopp, 1610, Thomas Gollopp or Gallopp, 1623 in PROB 11 (Netherbury, Dorset); Susan Gollop, 1621 in IGI (North Curry, Somerset).

1 Norman, English: nickname, occupational name from Old French **galopin*, **galpin*, apparently a diminutive of the Old French noun galop or the base of the verb galoper, and therefore denoting 'one who gallops'. It may have been used of a gentleman who habitually rode his horse at a gallop or of a professional rider or messenger.

Further information: The noun galopin is recorded only in Modern French, with the sense 'errand boy', and in Modern English (late 16th century in OED) with the unexpected sense 'kitchen boy, turnspit' but perhaps also 'errand boy, page boy'. However, medieval bearers of the English surname were men of property, indicating that galopin was originally used of men with a considerably higher status than an errand boy.

Early bearers: Robert Galopin, 1195 in Pipe Rolls (Warwicks); William Galopin, 1201 in Assize Rolls (Somerset); William Galpin, 1279 in Assize Rolls (Staffs); William Galopyn, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Rape of Chichester, Sussex); Elyas Galopyn, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Manhood Hundred, Sussex); John Galpyn, Thomas Galpyn, 1307 in Patent Rolls (Watton, ER Yorks); Johanne Galpyn, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Piddlehinton, Dorset); Adam Galpyn, 1346 in Patent Rolls (Kinton, Shrops); Johannes Galpyin, 1377 in Poll Tax (Eccleshall, Staffs); Johannes Galphyn, 1379 in Poll Tax (Rushden, Northants); Thomas Galpen, 1622 in IGI (Freshwater, IoW); Thomas Galpin, 1700 in IGI (Chichester, Sussex); James Galpin, 1709, Moses Gallpin, 1714, Wm. ### Geake

1 English: nickname, if originally pronounced with a hard G-, from Middle English **geke*, gecke ‘fool, simpleton’, though not on record before about 1530. Further information: OED suggests that English geck was a borrowing of Low German geck, Middle Dutch geck(k), Dutch gek, from a verb meaning ‘to mock’. The 1275 surname Geek, however, implies the existence of a Middle English variant with a long vowel. Perhaps Geke, Gekke are altered forms of Middle English yek(e) (Old English gēac) ‘cuckoo’, either influenced by the Middle Dutch word or by Middle English gok(e) (Old Scandinavian gaukr) ‘cuckoo’ and the derivative goki ‘fool’, which was borrowed early into Cornish with the additional sense ‘foolish’ (MED, at goki). Some of the following early bearers may alternatively belong under (2).

Geater

Variants: Jeater, Jetter

- Current frequencies: GB 282, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 115
- Main GB location 1881: scattered: esp. Berks; Suffolk; Aberdeens

1 English: (i) nickname or occupational name, possibly from Middle English get(t)our, jet(t)er ‘thrower’ (Old French geteor, jeteor) in some application: perhaps, like Thrower, for someone who made silk thread from raw silk; compare this name for other possible meanings. Alternatively, ‘dice-thrower, gambler’ is possible, as is also, but much less likely, ‘sorcerer, caster of spells (jeteur de sorts)’. The French surname Jeteur exists, but is not dealt with in standard handbooks. (ii) nickname from Middle English gettour ‘vain person, swaggerer’, agent noun from the verb getten, jetten ‘to behave or dress fashionably or ostentatiously; to strut, swagger’; of French origin, though the sense is not found in Anglo-Norman.

Further information: Family history suggests the first Scottish Frederick’s father came from Talaton (Devon) (<http://familytreemaker.genealogy.com/users/h/a/m/Marilyn-A-Hamilton/WEBSITE-0001/UHP-0107.html>), but this is unverified. It is uncertain whether this family pronounced an initial ‘hard’ or ‘soft’ g (/g/ or /dʒ/) and some researchers have associated this name with Gater.

Early bearers: England: [ . . . ] Getour, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Suffolk); Rico le Getur, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); Johannes Getour, 1377 in Poll Tax (Colchester, Essex); John Getour, rector of Bix (Oxon), 1456–73, in VCH (Swyncombe, Oxon); John Jetour, churchwarden, 1499 in Morton’s register (Lowestoft, Suffolk); John Jetour the younger of Lowestoft, 1515–18 in TNA (C 1/421/68) (Ipswich); James Jetour, Jettour, Jetter, 1535–6, mayor of Rye, in East Sussex Record Office (Sussex); Alice Getter, 1569 in IGI (Brenchley, Kent); John Jetter, 1574 in IGI (Gillingham, Kent); Francis Jeater, 1666 in IGI (Cobham, Surrey); Richard Geater, 1701 in IGI (Melton, Suffolk); Will. Geater, 1702 in IGI (Aldworth, Berks); Richd Jater, 1775 in IGI (Saint Marylebone, Middx); Anthony Geter, 1787 in IGI (Falmouth, Cornwall).

Scotland: Frederick Geater, 1815 in Parish Registers (Stonehaven, Kincardines); Frederick Geater, 1837 in IGI (Aberdeen, Aberdeens).

References: Clark, Grata Jeter (1987) The Jeter mosaic: seven centuries of Jeters. Fort Worth: Arcadia-Clark.

1 English: in N England usually a variant of Geldard, partly perhaps through association with the sense implied by (2). Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames notes the following alias: Rachel Gelder otherwise Geldard, 1764 (Bradford, WR Yorks).

2 English: occupational name, perhaps from Middle English gelder(e) 'gelder, castrator' (of livestock).

Gelding

Variants: Gilding, Guilding

• GB frequency 1881: 77

• Main GB location 1881: Notts

English: (i) locative name; the Notts name is possibly a metathesized form of Gedling, from Gedling near Nottingham (Notts). (ii) nickname; alternatively it may be from Middle English gelding, gilding 'castrated man, eunuch' (Old Scandinavian geldingr), or from the same notion applied to horses or pigs. For a possible occupational association compare Roberto Gyldhog ('geld pig'), 1379 in Poll Tax (Wyboston, Beds).

Further information: McKinley notes that in the 1332 subsidy for Catsfield, Sussex, Thomas Gelding is listed in the same order as Thomas Gelsing in the equivalent roll for 1327 (Surnames of Sussex, p. 400). If Gelding is a genuine variant of Golding, it may have been modelled on the Middle English interchange of golden 'golden' with the synonymous gilden, gulden, or gelden (Old English gylden). However, Gelding in this and similar instances might just be copyists' misreadings of Golding.

Early bearers: Geoffrey Geldyng, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Hoo, Sussex); Thomas Gelding, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Catsfield, Sussex); Thoma Gildyng, 1379 in Poll Tax (Crouchston, Wilts); Bridgett Gilding, 1607 in IGI (Norwich, Norfolk); Johlippus Gelding, 1646 in IGI (Shipdham, Norfolk); Gemima Gelding, 1703 in IGI (Happisburgh, Norfolk); Alfred Gelding, 1799 in IGI (Nottingham, Notts); William Gelding, 1822 in IGI (Abbotskerswell, Devon).

Swabian town of Schwäbisch Hall. The form of the name reflects Russian influence, since Russian, having no h, alters h in borrowed words to g. (ii) nickname from the strong form of Yiddish gel 'red-headed' (Middle High German gel 'yellow'). There has been considerable confusion with German gelb 'yellow', since the meaning change from 'yellow' to 'red' took place only in Yiddish and only with reference to people's complexion or hair colouring. Early bearers: Marks Geller, born in Poland, in Census 1881 (Leeds, WR Yorks); Abraham Geller, born in Russia, in Census 1901 (Mile End Old Town, Middx); David Geller, painter, born in Russia, in Census 1901 (Leeds, WR Yorks); Nathan Geller, born in Russia, in Census 1911 (Westminster, Middx); Isaac Geller, born in Brody, Austria, in Census 1911 (Holborn, Middx); Harris Geller, born in Russia, in Census 1911 (Surbiton, Surrey); Abraham Lewis Geller, born in Lutsk, Russia, in Census 1911 (Bristol, Gloucs).

2 German: (i) locative name from the North German town of Geldern or the Dutch province of Gelderland, earlier Geler, Gelre. (ii) occupational name for a town crier, Middle High German gellære (from gellen 'to shout or yell'). (iii) nickname, reduced form of Gelhaar, denoting someone with fair hair, from Middle High German gel 'yellow' + har 'hair'. Early bearers: John Geller, born in Germany, in Census 1881 (West Ham, Essex); Frederick Geller, born in Württemberg, Germany, in Census 1881 (Woolwich, Kent); Frederica Geller, born in Württemberg, Germany, in Census 1881 (Westminster, Middx); Carl Geller, commercial clerk, born in Germany, in Census 1891 (Bradford, WR Yorks).

Further information: Some bearers of this name can trace their descent from Osbern de Bol(e)bec, a Norman who married into the family of Richard I, Duke of Normandy (died about 966). Osbern’s grandson, Walter Giffard, received 107 lordships and manors in England following the Norman Conquest. Variation between Giffard, with initial /g/, and Geffard or Jeffard, with initial /dʒ/, reflects a dialectal difference between Normans from northern Normandy and those from southern Normandy, along with Frenchmen from elsewhere in France (From Latin to Modern French).

1 Norman, English: relationship name from Middle English Giles or Gile, a borrowing from Old French Gil(l)le(s) after the Norman Conquest. This is from Latin Egidius, which was once thought to derive from Greek aigidion ‘kid, young goat’ but is now believed to be a late Latin formation from the Latin personal name Eggius + the suffix -idius.

Further information: The personal name was widely used in France and the Low Countries, partly through veneration of Saint Gilles de Provence, supposedly a hermit of the 6th or 7th century near Arles. He was patron saint of cripples, hence the dedication of Saint Giles Cripplegate in London, though the personal name itself was less common in England than on the Continent. Fewer than one in a thousand men had the first name Giles in late 14th-century England. This was the common Middle English version of the name but Gile also occurs as an early Middle English forename, and Gille is recorded as a surname, though this has several alternative origins (see Gill). In 12th-century records Giles sometimes appears as Gisel, Gisle, and Gilo, which suggests some confusion with pet forms of Germanic names in Gi(s)i-, such as Gi(se)lbert. However, in general clerks recognized its true origin in Egidius, which they used as the usual Latin form of the name.

Early bearers: given names: Gilo, Ghilo, 1086 in Domesday Book; Gisle, Egidius, Gilo, Gile de Gousle 1154–89, 1183–7 in Danelaw Documents (Lincs); Gile de Costeshal, 1196 in Pipe Rolls (Lincs); Gilo Hose, 1210 in Curia Regis Rolls (Wilts).

2 Irish: in Ireland, adopted for Ó Glaisne, a Louth surname based on glas 'greyish blue-green'.

Irish: from Mac Giolla Ghuala, possibly meaning 'son of the gluttonous lad', from a nickname based on gola 'gullet, gut'. Woulfe suggests that Mac Giolla Shúiligh (súileach 'sharp-eyed'), as in Muircertach Mac Giolla Shúiligh, 1243 in Annals of the Four Masters, is a variant; if so it is the likely origin of anglicized spellings containing h.

- Current frequencies: GB 25, Ireland 79
- GB frequency 1881: 16
- Main GB location 1881: Lanarks
- Main Irish location 1847–64: Tyrone

1 Scottish: probably a variant of Gilkison with intrusive -n-. Gilkison, also spelled Gilkerson, may have been re-formed as Gilkinson by a false analogy with northern surnames like Wilke(r)son, a reduced form of Wilkinson.

Early bearers: Grizzal Gilkinson, 1727 in IGI (Kirkcinner, Wigtowns); James Gilkinson, 1752 in IGI (Irvine, Ayr); Jean Gilkinson, 1807 in IGI (Saint Quivox, Ayr); John Gilkinson, 1811 in IGI (Campbeltown, Argyll).

2 Scottish: (i) relationship name, possibly an English patronymic 'son of Gilkin'. With a hard pronunciation of initial G-, the personal name might be a pet form of Gilbert. With a soft pronunciation of initial G-, it would be a borrowing into Middle English of Gilquin, the French version of Middle Dutch Gilkin (as in the 1296 citation), which was the common Flemish pet form of Giles. Many Flemings settled in England after the Norman Conquest. It may have given rise to the now lost surnames Gilkin and Gilkins, as in Richard Gylekyn, 1317–18 in Feet of Fines (Surrey); Richard Gylkyns, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Worcs). Compare Gill. (ii) relationship name: alternatively the English surname (if it has a soft G-) might be based on a pet form of the Middle English female personal name Gillian. Compare Gill.

Further information: English evidence for Gilkinson is very slight, however, and post-medieval bearers of the name with hard initial G- may be descendants of Scottish migrants. See sense (1).

Variants: Gerling, Gurling

- Current frequencies: GB 2213, Ireland 3
- GB frequency 1881: 1899
- Main GB location 1881: E Anglia

English: relationship name from the Middle English personal name **Gerling*, **Girling*, recorded as the name of a Norman in Domesday Book. It is related to Continental Germanic Gerlo, Girlo, and is a pet form of Germanic names in Ger- (compare Gerard, Gerald, and Garbett).

Further information: Reaney explains Girling as a reduced form of Girdelion, attested only in Adam Girdelyon, Girdelion, 1296–7 in Wakefield Court Rolls (WR Yorks). This appears to be a variant of Old French cœur-de-lion (see Codling), but there seems to be no evidence to link Girdelion with the modern surname.

Early bearers: given names: Gerling, 1086 in Domesday Book (Dorset). surnames: William Gerlyn, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); Robert Gerling, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Cambs); Bartholomeus Gyrling', 1379 in Poll Tax (Guntun, Norfolk); Wyllyam Gyrlinge, 1547 in The East Anglian (New Series) ii (Suffolk); Hary Gerlynge, 1563 in IGI (Bramfield, Suffolk); John Girling, 1571 in IGI (South Lynn, Norfolk); Johan. English: nickname from Middle English (on) Godes half '(on) God's behalf, (for) God's sake', applied to someone who frequently used this expression.

Further information: On Godes half was generally reduced to a Godes half (or a Godesolve), which was sometimes misinterpreted as a weak pronunciation of 'of God's half'. Compare William of Godeshalve, 1323 in Patent Rolls. This was rendered by some medieval clerks as de Godesolve, giving it the false appearance of a locative name.

The seal of Matthew son of Robert a Godeshalf (1202–16 Ekwall, ELPN) bore the legend 'Sigill. Mathei ex parte Dei'. This shows that already at the beginning of the 13th century the surname had become hereditary in London. A similar name of Old French origin is Pardoe.

- 1 English: relationship name from the Middle English personal name Godsone, representing Old English Godsunu, of various origins. It may be composed of Old English god 'God' or gōd 'good' + sunu 'son', or it may be an original patronymic 'son of God' used as a given name. God was a pet form of names like Godric and Godwine, and substitution of their other Middle English pet form Gode (Old English Goda) may account for the alternative Middle English spelling Godesone; compare Alwinus Gode sunu, 1086 in Domesday Book (Somerset). The Old English female names Goda and Gode could also have contributed to Middle English Godesone. Alternatively some instances of the surname may derive from Middle English godson (Old English godsunu) 'godson'. Some of the following early bearers may belong under (2) or (3). See also Goodson.

Early bearers: given names: Godsune, 1086 in Domesday Book (Essex), 1191 in Pipe Rolls (Kent); Godeson le Megucyer, 1235 in Ekwall, ELPN (London). surnames: William Godsune, 1200 in Pipe Rolls (London); Benedict Godsone, 1298 in Feet of Fines (Cambs); Richard Goddesone, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Staffs); Ricardus Godeson', 1379 in Poll Tax (Handsworth, WR Yorks); Johannes Godeson', 1381 in Poll Tax (West Ham, Essex); Jurdano Godeson', 1381 in Poll Tax (Chedworth, Gloucs); Alexander Godeson', 1408 in Feet of Fines (Lincs); Ursley Godson, 1570 in IGI (Normanton, WR Yorks); Thomas Godson, 1573 in IGI (Great and Little Hale, Lincs); Guilielmus Godson, 1606 in IGI (Stone, Staffs); Frances Godson, 1635 in IGI (Tibberton, Worcs).

2 English: relationship name from Middle English Godessone 'son of God(e)'. This easily became confused with Godesone in (1) and (3). Adam Godesone or Godessone, 1294–1305 in Ekwall, ELPN, was a son or descendant of Godeson le Megucyer (1235), who may also have been known as Gode, hence perhaps the variation between Godesone and Godessone in Adam's surname. It is likely in any case that the final s of Godes- would have become assimilated to the initial s of -sone. Some of the following early bearers may belong under (1) or (3). Early bearers: Roger Godessun', 1205 in Curia Regis Rolls (Essex); William Godesone, 1252 in Ramsey Cartulary (Hunts); Adam Godesone, 1294, Adam Godessone, 1303 in London Letter Books A; Thomas filius Gode, 1302 in Subsidy Rolls (Yorks); Willelmus Godesson', 1379 in Poll Tax (Choseley, Norfolk); Johanne Godeson, 1379 in Poll Tax (Deptford, Wilts); Alicia Godessone, 1379 in Poll Tax (Downton, Wilts); Jone Godson, 1559 in IGI (Birmingham, Warwicks); John Godsson, 1563 in IGI (Birmingham, Warwicks); John Godson, 1563 in IGI (Winwick, Lancs).

3 English: nickname from Middle English god(e) + sonne 'good son' (Old English gōd + sunu). In the York Mystery Plays, Gud sonne 'good son' is a common term of address. Compare William Goodefader, 1418 in Patent Rolls (Essex). Some of the following early bearers may belong under (1) or (2). Early bearers: Ralph le Godesone, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Newtimber and Pyecombe, Sussex); Sarra Godesone, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Walderton, Sussex); William le Godesone, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Worth, Sussex); Robert Goodson, 1377 in Ancient Deeds vi (Herefs); Johannes Godesone, 1379 in Poll Tax (Pyecombe, Sussex); Johannes Godeson, 1377 in Poll Tax (Allensmore, Herefs); Joana Godson, 1562 in IGI (Enfield, Middx); Henry Godson, 1568 in IGI (Bury Saint Edmunds, Suffolk); Philipp Godson, 1570 in IGI (Saint Saviour, York).

Variants: Gullidge

- Current frequencies: GB 519, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 296
- Main GB location 1881: Somerset; also Wilts; Monmouths

English: probably a variant of Colledge (from Colwich, Staffs), as indicated by the co-occurrence of John Colledge, 1561, William Colledge, 1576, William Golledge, 1578 in IGI (Trowbridge, Wilts); Edward Golledge, 1594, Stephen Colledge, 1600 in IGI (Ware, Herts). Compare Richard Colewich, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Little Badminton, Gloucs), which suggests that the surname could have migrated to Wilts and Somerset from Gloucs.

Further information: Waltero Golleygh', 1379 in Poll Tax (Tisbury, Wilts), looks like a potential early bearer but his name's origin is obscure and he may be irrelevant to the explanation of Golledge. Wilson derives Golledge from Middle English, Old French galoche, galogé, denoting a shoe with a wooden sole and leather thongs. Such a name is apparently attested in Godfrey Galoch, 1256 in Feet of Fines (Lincs) and possibly in Richard Golache, 1221 in Assize Rolls (Worcs), though the reversing of the vowels is not recorded in the word. The evidence seems too slender to safely connect this word with the Somerset and Wilts surname.

Early bearers: William Colledge, 1576, William Golledge, 1578, James Golegge, 1610, John Golledge, 1644 in IGI (Trowbridge, Wilts); Joane Golledge, 1585 in IGI (Bitton, Gloucs); Stephen Golledge, 1599 in IGI (Baltonsborough, Somerset); Gratia Gollege, 1600 in IGI (Wedmore, Somerset); John Gullidge, 1787 in IGI (Somerton, Somerset).

1 English: (i) relationship name from the rare Middle English personal name Goche (also found as Joche). It was current in the King's Lynn area from the early 12th to the early 13th century as a variant of Anglo-Norman French Go(s)ce, Jo(s)ce, a pet form of Old French Goscelin. Compare Jocel 'de flet, 12th cent. in Castle Acre Cartulary, identical with Iosce de Flet, 1183–5, who was father of Ricardum filium Iosce, 1162–4 in Lincoln Episcopal Acta (Fleet, Lincs, near King's Lynn). See also Goss and Joslin. (ii) nickname from Anglo-Norman French **gouge* (Latin gōbiō), the nominative form of Old French goujon (Latin gōbiōnem) 'gudgeon', perhaps a name for a gullible person. Compare Gudgeon. This is not a likely source of the personal name, which is the prime candidate as the source of the E Anglian surname.

Further information: The derivation in Reaney and Wilson from Welsh goch 'red(-haired)' is implausible for the E Anglian surname. The vowel in the later Middle English and Modern English spellings Gouch(e), Gooch(e), Gocche, Guch, Gugge, and Gotche shows an East Anglian dialectal development to Middle English close /o:/, which was sometimes shortened to /u/ or became /u:/ in Modern English, as in the modern pronunciations of Gooch and its variants. The final consonant sometimes becomes voiced, e.g. in Middle English Goge, Gugge, and Modern English Goodge.

Early bearers: given names: Gothe (perhaps an error for Goche) fabrum ('smith'), 1136–43, 1150–3, identical with Goge fabrum, 1152–73, Goche fabrum, 1152–73, 1192–3 in Stoke by Clare Cartulary (Crimpleham, Norfolk); Goche, 1165–6 in Pipe Rolls (Norfolk and Suffolk); Goche 1186–1210 in Saint Benet of Holme Register (Potter Heigham, Norfolk); Goche Bulehert, 1190, Goche West, 1197 in Pipe Rolls (Norfolk and Suffolk); Goche palmarus, 1201 in Curia Regis Rolls (Norfolk); Goch de Len, about 1210–20 in West Dereham Cartulary, (Kings Lynn, Norfolk); Robert son of Gotcche, 1281 in Patent Rolls (Lancs).

2 Welsh: (i) nickname in SW and W England, possibly an anglicization of Welsh coch, goch 'red(-haired)', though the sound change is irregular. Compare Gough. Migration of Welshmen to SW England may partly account for the appearance there of Gooch and its variants, and their seeming interchangeability with Couch and Cooch. (ii) nickname: in SW and W England, perhaps a variant of Couch (1), with voicing of the initial consonant.

Further information: The anglicization of Welsh Goch, pronounced /go:χ/, to English Gooch, pronounced /gu:tʃ/, has puzzled scholars. Welsh -ch, like Middle English -gh, represents the voiceless velar fricative /χ/, as in Welsh bach 'little'. By the early 16th century, the English had problems pronouncing /χ/, for which they usually substituted /f/ in words like cough. Welsh Goch was therefore normally anglicized to Gough, pronounced /gɒf/. The alternative substitution of /tʃ/ (the final sound in the word such) to produce Gooch is unexpected, but it is paralleled in Batch, Beach, and Beech as anglicized forms of Welsh Bach, alongside the more usual Baugh. One theory is that the English re-interpreted the pronunciation of the Welsh spelling -ch. That does not explain why the vowels in Gooch, Beach, and Beech are also different from their Welsh originals. A more likely explanation is that the Welsh names were being roughly equated with unrelated but similar-sounding English ones.

Early bearers: Johanna Gouche, 1558 in IGI (Taunton, Somerset); Tho[mas] Goych, 1575 in IGI (Menheniot, Cornwall); Theodose Gouch, 1603 in IGI (Selattyn, Shropshire); Samuell Gouche, 1625 in IGI (Axminster, Devon); Richard Gouch, 1628 in IGI (Worthen, Shropshire); Marget Gouch, 1711 in IGI (Pelynt, Cornwall, Cornwall).

1 English: nickname 'good ale', from Middle English god(e), gud(e), goud(e) 'good' + ale, ail(e) 'ale'. It was possibly sometimes given to a taverner but more usually perhaps to an ale taster, as Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames shows, citing Robert Godale, ale taster, 1332 in Wakefield Court Rolls (Horbury, WR Yorks). Compare Drinkall, which may have had a similar application. Redmonds also provides evidence that in WR Yorks the name was confused with Goodair and Goodyear from an early date.

Further information: An ale taster was a manorial or borough court official appointed to regulate the quality of ale sold by taverners and ale wives, especially to prevent the sale of sour or watered-down ale.

Variants: Goodiff, Goodey

- Current frequencies: GB 184, Ireland 0
  - GB frequency 1881: 134
  - Main GB location 1881: Hants, Surrey, and Middx
- English: (i) relationship name from the Middle English female personal name Godyeve, Godive, Godif (Old English Godgifu, latinized as Godiva). It became confused with another Middle English female personal name Godith (Old English Godgýð); see Goodey, and compare Godyf widow of John Clare, alias Goditha Clare de Strode in Assize Rolls (Kent). (ii) status name, nickname, occasionally perhaps from Middle English godwif 'virtuous woman; mistress of a household', often used as a courtesy title for married women of relatively humble social status. Compare Hussey (3) (from hus(e)wif) and Goodman. For obvious reasons it was mainly borne by women, such as Nota Godwyf, 1311 in Colchester Court Rolls, and Margaret Godewyf, 1374 in Feet of Fines (Hunts). The bearing of the name by a man, such as John Godewyf, 1413 in Patent Rolls (Glatton, Hunts), can be explained either as an ironic nickname or perhaps through being surnamed from the mother's title. Alternatively, because godwife was generally reduced to goody(f), the relationship name in (i) may have re-etymologized as 'goodwife', and Godewyf and Goodwife as hereditary surnames are hypercorrections of Goodiff and Goodeve. Early bearers: given names: Godgeua, Godiaua, Godeue, 1086 in Domesday Book; Godiuua, 1221 in Assize Rolls (Warwicks).
surnames: John Godyf, 1279 in Hundred Rolls (Oxon); Thomas Godif, 1297 in Subsidy Rolls (Pockthorpe, in Nafferton, ER Yorks); William Godyeue, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Suffolk); Willelmus Godyeue, 1379 in Poll Tax (Ranworth, Norfolk); Walterus Godeyeue, 1381 in Poll Tax (Cound with parcels, Shrops); John Godeeve, 1494 in Feet of Fines (Coventry, Warwicks); Edward Godyf, 1527 in Rochester Wills (Kent); Susan Goodeve, 1579 in IGI (Terling, Essex); Edmond Goodeve, 1662 in Hearth Tax (Essex); Richard Goodif, 1681 in IGI (Earnley, Sussex); Ann Goodeve, 1668 in IGI (East Meon, Hants); James Goodive, 1696 in IGI (Portsmouth, Hants); John Goodwife, 1710 in IGI (Gosport, Hants); John Goodiff, 1728 in IGI (Buriton, Hants).

There have been Gordon links with Ulster since the 17th-century Plantation. Early bearers: Richer de Gordun, lord of the barony of Gordon in the Merse (1150–60) and his son Thomas de Gordun in Kelso Register; Adam de Gurdun, 1309 in Patent Rolls (Scotland); Kattrin Gordon, 1580 in IGI (Aberdeen, Aberdeens).

4 Jewish (from Lithuania): locative name, probably from the Belarusian city of Hrodna.

There is a family tradition among some bearers that they are descended from a son of a Duke of Gordon who converted to Judaism in the 18th century, but the Jewish surname was in existence before the 18th century; it goes back at least to 1657. Others claim descent from earlier Scottish converts, but this is equally implausible.

1 English: perhaps a variant of Corney from the Cumb place so named, which is not far either from Lonsdale in Lancs, where some of the medieval bearers below are recorded, or from Sedbergh and Kendal, where post-medieval bearers of Corney are well documented. Compare Nicholas Corney, 1607, Thomas Gurnal, 1716 in IGI (Kendal, Westm). The voicing of initial /k/ to /g/ in the first element (Old English **corn*, **cron* 'crane, heron?') is recorded for the place-name in 1291 (Gornay). Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames notes James Gorner, 1792 in the parish registers of Ingleton (WR Yorks), by Lonsdale, which is evidence of an altered pronunciation of final -ey identical to that seen in Corney, Lancs, in (2). In the medieval forms Middle English -ey (Old English ēg) 'island, land by a river' may have been substituted by hill (Old English hyll) 'hill', or by Middle English hal(e) (Old English halh) 'a stretch of flat, alluvial land near a river'. It is likely that this surname sometimes overlapped geographically with that in (2).

Early bearers: Ricardus Gornell', 1379, Robertus Gornell', 1379, Willelmus Gornell', 1379 in Poll Tax (Lonsdale wapentake, Lancs); Johannes Gronnell, 1377 in Poll Tax (Ness, in Hovingham, NR Yorks); Willelmus Gronnell', 1379 in Poll Tax (Austwick, WR Yorks, now NR Yorks); Robert Gurnell of Clapham (WR Yorks), 1392 in York Freeman's Register; Agnes Gurnell, 1560 in IGI (Kendal, Westm); Elizabeth Gurnell, 1572 in IGI (Cartmel, Lancs); Robti. Gurnell, 1593 in IGI (Bedale, NR Yorks); John Gurnell, 1601 in IGI (Millom, Cumb); Robert Gurnel, 1605 in IGI (Dalton in Furness, Lancs); Marmaduke Gornell, 1607 in IGI (Darlington, Durham); William Gurnell, 1616 in IGI (Ingleton, WR Yorks); Anthonius Gurnell, 1629 in IGI (Clapham, WR Yorks); Elizabeth Gurnill, 1633 in IGI (Skipton, WR Yorks); Elizabetha Gornall, 1706, Richard Gornill, 1753 in IGI (Slaidburn, WR Yorks); John Gurnell, 1714, John Gornall, 1739 in IGI (Windermere, Westm); Nathl. Gurnal, 1761 in IGI (Bracewell, WR Yorks); Ann Gurnell, 1795 in IGI (Kirkby Lonsdale, Westm).

References: Place-Names of Cumb, p. 364.
2 English: alternatively a variant of Corney or Cornall, from Corney in Kirkham (Lancs), with voicing of the initial consonant. For the voicing, compare Mary Gorney, 1625, Robert Gorner, 1691 in IGI (Ribchester, Lancs), Robart Gorner, 1684, Thomas Gornel, 1762 in IGI (Stalmine, Lancs), and Ann Corney, 1800, William Gorney, 1830 in IGI (Bury, Lancs). In Kirkham parish are recorded Richard Cornay (1545) and Richard Gornall (1639) in IGI. From the late 17th century there is fuller evidence for the surname variation in parishes close to Kirkham: Henery Cornall, 1663, Christofer Gurnall, 1675, Thomas Cornal, 1726, John Corney, 1727, John Cornah, 1739, Nathanael Gornall, 1730 in IGI (Saint Michael on Wyre, Lancs); and Hugh Gurnall, 1650, Ric. Cornay, 1678, John Corney, 1720, Thomas Gornal, 1750, John Cornah, 1762, Mary Cornal, 1772, John Cornell, 1781, Annas Gornah, 1824 in IGI (Garstang, Lancs).

Further information: There seems to be no evidence to derive this surname from Gornal (Staffs).

Early bearers: Ellen Gornall, 1588 in IGI (Rochdale, Lancs); Nathaniel Gurnall, 1702, John Garnall, 1773, Nathanael Gornall, 1730 in IGI (Saint Michael on Wyre, Lancs); Richard Gernall, 1800 in IGI (Manchester, Lancs).

Two similar names may have fallen together.

Further information: The final -d is a late medieval or post-medieval excrescent consonant originating in an eastern English county.

1 English: (i) relationship name from the Middle English personal name Gotte. In some cases this was a pet form of Godfrey. In the proceedings relating to Ossett (WR Yorks) in Wakefield Court Rolls, William son of Godefrey de Dewysbiry (1307) is almost certainly identical with William son of Gotte de Dewsbiry (1309), as suggested in Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames. It may also have been a pet form of other names beginning in God-, such as Goddard and Godwin. (ii) relationship name; Middle English Gotte was also a simplified pronunciation of the Anglo-Norman French personal name Goz, Gots (Continental Germanic Gozzo), often used as a pet form of the Old French personal name Gocelin, which was pronounced Gotselin; see Joslin. In 1319 Gocelin Bouer and Thomas Gotsone Bouer were accused of assaulting Gilbert de Lyndeseye (Patent Rolls, Hunts). In Middle English usage Gotsone Bouer means 'son of Got Bouer', which seems to confirm that Got is a short form of Gocelin. (iii) relationship name from the unrecorded Middle English personal name **Gutte*, **Gotte*, representing Old Scandinavian Gutti, a pet form of Guðþormr (Guttormr) or perhaps of Old Swedish Gudhfast.

Further information: The more usual English development of Old French Goz was to Goss. For the reduction of /ts/ to either /s/ or /t/ compare Jort, Jors, Jorz under Joyce (2). For Gotson as a patronymic surname see Gosson.

Early bearers: given names: Gotte filius Wulfrici, 1188 in Pipe Rolls (Yorks); Gutti le Cuper de Berton' [Barton Bendish], early 13th cent. in *Insley, Scand. Independently from German Christians, it was used from the Middle Ages by German Jews.

1 Welsh: nickname from Welsh coch, goch 'red (-haired)'. The mutated form goch is normal after a personal name. The final consonant, spelled -ch, was the voiceless velar fricative /x/, as in Welsh bach. This frequently became /f/ after back vowels in Modern English, hence the anglicized spellings Gough and Goff. In England, where the surname occurs from Welsh migration, it may have become hereditary in medieval times but this development was probably much later in Wales. Compare Gooch (2) and Couch, which may sometimes derive from the same source.

Graveson

Variants: Greavison, Grieveson, Greeson, Greson, Grason, Grayson, Grayshan, Grayshon, Gration, Graveston, Grayston, Grievson

• Current frequencies: GB 222, Ireland 0

• GB frequency 1881: 161

• Main GB location 1881: Westm, Lancs, Cumb

English: relationship name, 'son of the steward, farm bailiff, or village headman', largely confined to northern England. From the north Midlands through Yorks to the north-west, the source is Middle English greyve, grayve, greve, a borrowing of Old Scandinavian greifi, see Grave. In Durham and Northumb the source is Middle English greve, from Old (Northumbrian) English græfa, see Grieve. The two forms are difficult to tell apart, except that the post-medieval spelling Grieve- usually reflects the Northumbrian term. Pronunciation developments have sometimes obscured the origin of the name. Grayveson frequently lost the -v-, becoming Gra(y)son and Greeson; see Grayson.

Further information: The development of an intrusive -t- in Graveston and Grieveston gives a false impression that they are locative names in -(s)ton. They have nothing to do with the important medieval abbey of Grestain or Grestein (French Abbaye Notre-Dame de Grestain) near Fatouville-Grestain, Eure, since they are a late development.

The term is found chiefly in Hants, Sussex, and Surrey.

- Main GB location 1881: Leics; also Notts and Derbys

1 English: locative name, usually from Greasley (Notts) but possibly also from Gresley (Derbys). Some of the following early bearers may alternatively belong under (2), particularly the Lancs examples. Further information: The de Gresley family of Greasley, Notts, held extensive estates and founded and patronized monastic houses in Notts, Lancs, Staffs, Warwicks, Lincs, and Leics, and at various times acted as sheriffs of Staffs and of Notts. A Rainald of Gresley (Derbys) is recorded in 1166, Book of Fees, but it is unclear whether he founded a family of this name. Variant spellings like Grel(l)ey and Gredley, where -s- has either been assimilated to the following -l- or dissimilated to -d-, occur only for the surnames and not the place-names. This may reflect confusion between this name and that in (2).

Greatwood

- Current frequencies: GB 172, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 113
- Main GB location 1881: Somerset, Wilts, and Devon; London

1 English: locative name from Greatwood, the name of a former tract of heathland near Little Wyrley in Staffs, on record from about 1250 until 1719 when the land was enclosed. The place-name (or its derived surname) is preserved in Greatwood Farm and Greatwood Lodge in Croxton (Staffs).

Further information: Reaney's derivation from Greatworth (Northants) is also formally possible, with -wood substituted for -worth; compare Richard Gretword, 1195 in Pipe Rolls (Notts), and Gilbert de Gretewurthe, 1214 in Curia Regis Rolls (Northants). However, the concentration of the post-medieval surname in Staffs fits better with a Staffs origin.

Early bearers: Alice Gratewoode, 1546 in IGI (Hodnet, Shrops); William Gratewood, 1573 in IGI (Lichfield, Staffs); John Gratewod, 1582 in IGI (Ashperton, Herefs); Richardus Gratewood, 1591, Richardi Gratewood, 1624 in IGI (Stone, Staffs); Robert Gratewood, 1592 in IGI (Charlton Kings, Gloucs); Jane Gratewod, 1625, Susan Gratewood, 1625, Elinor Gratewood, George Gratewood, 1775 in IGI (Corsley, Wilts); Marcie Gratewood, 1633 in IGI (Saint Botolph without Aldgate, London); Sarah Gratewood, 1758 in IGI (Attenborough, Notts); Ann Greetwood, 1784 in IGI (Gloucester, Gloucs).

2 English: locative name; the Devon name might alternatively be from Greatwood (Farm) in Potheridge (Merton parish, Devon), but since no early evidence has been found there for the place-name or the surname, the Devon farm may have been named after a tenant whose family migrated from the W Midlands.

Further information: Pawley White explains Gribbin, Gribben as a native Cornish name, associating it with the coastal feature known as Gribbin Head (perhaps from Cornish cribyynn ‘little ridge’). This is recorded as Grebin, 1699 in Padel’s Cornish Place-Names, and replaces an earlier name Pennarthe ‘headland’ (1525). Padel compares Thomas son of Robert Grobbin, living nearby at Polridmouth, about 1260 in Cornish Place-Names, but doubts that either surname, Grobbin or Gribben, has any connection with the uninhabited headland.

They have been long established in Cheshire, with strong links with the city of Chester. One of the earliest recorded bearers of the name was Robert le Grosvenor of Budworth, who was granted lands by the Earl of Chester in 1160. Irish: of uncertain origin. It has been suggested that it may be from Irish Mac Giodaire, a personal name or byname based on giodar 'haste'. It has also been suggested (MacLysaght, Supplement to Irish Families, p. 84), that it may derive from Mag Fhuadaire, a personal name meaning 'wanderer'. However, it seems more likely that it is an immigrant name from Sicily, of Albanian origin. There is a large Albanian community in Sicily, and according to Carcausi, Guidera is recorded in documents relating to the Albanian-speaking community of Sicily from the 18th century onwards.

1 Chinese: Mandarin form of the Chinese surname 郭 (Kuo in Mandarin romanization, Kwok in Cantonese romanization), meaning 'rampart' in ancient Chinese: (i) from Guo (虢, also written as 郭 in ancient Chinese), the name of two ancient states during the Western Zhou dynasty (1046–771 BC). One was called Eastern Guo (东郭) (located in Henan province). It was granted to Guo Zhong, brother of Zhou Wen Wang (1152–1056 BC), and annexed by the state of Zheng in 765 BC. The other was called Western Guo (西郭) (originally located in Shaanxi province) and was granted to Guo Shu, another brother of the virtuous Zhou Wen Wang; see Zhou (1). During the reign of Zhou Ping Wang (c. 781–720 BC), the Western Guo was moved to present-day Henan and Shanxi provinces, and eventually annexed by the state of Jin in 655 BC. The original place of the Western Guo was also annexed by the state of Qin in 687 BC. After the annihilation of these states, Guo (郭) was adopted as a surname. (ii) from Guo (郭), the name of another ancient state (located in Liaocheng in Shandong province) during the Western Zhou dynasty (1046–771 BC). After it was annexed by the state of Cao during the Spring and Autumn period (770–476 BC), the name of the state was adopted as a surname. (iii) adopted as a surname by residents who lived outside a city, because Guo (郭) means 'rampart, outer wall of a city' in ancient Chinese.

2 Chinese: Mandarin form of the Chinese surname 國 (Kuo in Mandarin romanization, Kwok in Cantonese romanization), meaning 'state' or 'country' in Chinese: (i) said to be borne by descendants of Guo Ai (國哀), who is believed to have been a teacher of Xia Yu, the first king of the Xia dynasty (2070–1600 BC). (ii) borne by descendants of certain nobles in the state of Qi who lived during the Spring and Autumn period (770–476 BC). (iii) from the second element of the personal name Zi Guo (子國), the style name of Fa, a prince in the state of Zheng during the Spring and Autumn period (770–476 BC). (iv) borne by descendants of certain nobles who lived in the state of Wei (衛) during the Spring and Autumn period (770–476 BC).

3 Chinese: Mandarin form of the Chinese surname 過 (Kuo in Mandarin romanization and in Cantonese romanization), meaning 'pass' in Chinese: from Guo (過), name of an ancient state (located in Yexian in present-day Shandong province) during the Xia dynasty (2070–1600 BC). After its king Jiao was killed, the name of the state was adopted by some as a surname.

4 Chinese: Mandarin form of the Chinese surname 果 (Kuo in Mandarin romanization and in Cantonese romanization), meaning 'fruit' in Chinese: (i) possibly borne by descendants of the state of Ba Zi (located in Ba county in Chongqing) during the Western Zhou dynasty (1046–771 BC). (ii) a surname from Manchu ethnic group in N China.

1 Welsh: from gwyn 'fair, white', also sometimes 'white-headed; favourite'. Compare Wynne, with which it has a complex philological relationship. When it was used as an epithet or by-name, wyn is the expected form in Welsh after male given names and wen after female ones. When it comes to be used as a surname, the non-lenited form Gwyn, Gwynne, is often substituted, as illustrated by Hugh Gwyn, son of Hugh Wynn of Tower (Flints), 17th cent. in Morgan and Morgan, p. 117. However, this process was inconsistent.

- Norman, English: locative name, perhaps from the R. Goyt (Derbys), recorded as Guyt (1244), Guyot, Gouyt (1300) and, according to Place-Names of Derbys, p. 6, in the surname Goyt, 1262 in Feet of Fines (Derbys). The Goyt Valley is not far from Chelmsorton, where the modern surname has had a long history since at least the 17th century.

Further information: Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames speculates that the surname might derive from the Middle English (Old French) personal name Gyot, a pet form Guy (see Guy and compare Wyatt), citing Johannes Gyott', 1379 in Poll Tax (Beckwith in Killinghall, WR Yorks), and also Henry Guyt, 1333 in Sallay Cartulary (Oxton, WR Yorks), and Nicholas Guyte, 1436 in York Registry Wills (Ripon, WR Yorks). However, the locations of these WR Yorks surnames are probably too far distant from NW Derbys for them to be considered as early evidence of the Derbys surname.

The following early bearers, from outside WR Yorks, could come from this source, if they are not from branches of the Lancs and WR Yorks families called Habergham that migrated south: Edmund Habirgent, 1416 in Norwich Wills; John Habberjohn, 1569 in IGI (Donnington, Sussex); Rose Habergyn, 1572 in IGI (Hadleigh, Suffolk); John Haberdejohn, 1592 in Archaeologia Cantiana 48; Francis Haberion, 1623 in IGI (Finchampstead, Berks). However, no medieval evidence for this word as a surname has been found, and it is certainly not the source of the current name in WR Yorks.

2 English: (i) relationship name from the Middle English personal name Hagan, Hagen, mostly representing Old Danish Hagħni, especially in Norfolk, where the name is well attested in the 12th and early 13th centuries. It may have been reinforced by Norman use of Continental Germanic Hagano, Hageno, Hagino, but there is no certain evidence for this in Anglo-Norman England. In Norfolk the name was confused with the Middle English personal name Hakun (see ii). It also developed to Hane and Hayne; see Hayne (1). (ii) relationship name, variant of Hacon with voicing of the intervocalic consonant.

- 1 Irish: from Ó hÉigceartaigh, see Hegarty.
2 English: nickname, occasionally perhaps from the Middle English salutation have god daihagoday 'have a good day', as illustrated in the 1379 example. For a reduced form of the same expression see Gooday. However, post-medieval spellings with -er- are of doubtful relevance before the mid-18th century, when medial /r/ ceased to be pronounced in Standard English and -er- could be used as a spelling of unstressed -a- or -o-. It is possible, therefore, that all modern examples of Haggerty, even that of 1614 below, are Irish and belong with (1).

This surname is no longer found in Scotland but may have reinforced the English name through migration.

1 English: locative name denoting a dweller in an enclosure, meadow, or water meadow, from a derivative of Middle English ham(me) (see Ham) + -er. Names composed of a topographical term + -er are characteristic of southern England, especially Kent, Sussex, Surrey, and Hants.

Further information: Derivation from Middle English ham(m)er, hamor ‘hammer’ (Old English hamor) is formally possible, either as an occupational nickname or as a locative or occupational name taken from a shop sign or inn sign. Compare Geoffrey wythe Hameres, 1303 in Patent Rolls, and An Brewer atte Hamere, 1426 in London English, p. 191. However, there is no evidence that such appellations became hereditary surnames.

Early bearers: Richard Hamer, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); John le Hammer, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); Johannes and Willelmus Hammer, 1379 in Poll Tax (Lancing, Sussex); Johannes Hammere, 1381 in Poll Tax (Bramley, Surrey); Elyzabeth Hamer, 1584 in IGI (Chillenden, Kent); Isaac Hammer, 1603 in IGI (Canterbury, Kent); William Hammer, 1666 in IGI (Bodmin, Cornwall).

2 English: for the name in N England see Hamer.
3 English: possibly also a variant of Hammer.

English: (i) locative name, probably from Ombersley (Worcs), which is recorded as Ambresley in the 12th century.
