- Welsh, English: relationship name from the Middle English (Old French) personal name David, a borrowing of Hebrew David from the Old Testament via the Vulgate Latin Bible and the King James Bible. In Wales, David is an anglicized version of the Welsh form Dafydd.

Further information: This originally Hebrew personal name was early used as a Christian name on the Continent and in Wales, whose patron saint Dewi (bearing the older Welsh form of David) was abbot-bishop in the 6th century at what became known as Saint David's in Pembrokes. There are numerous dedications and place-names honouring the saint in south Wales, and it is no coincidence that the modern surname David is heavily concentrated there, especially in Glamorgan. See also Davies, with which it was sometimes confused. The later Welsh form of the given name, Dafydd, is sometimes found in the record as a surname, and is also sometimes anglicized as David. The personal name was also current in Brittany, where similar dedications to the saint can be found. In England David is not found as a personal name until after the Norman Conquest, when it was probably introduced by Bretons. Except for counties along the Welsh border, it was generally infrequent in medieval England. Its Middle English forms were David, Davit, and especially Davy, hence the typical English surname Davey and the derived

Davis and Davison. In Scotland, the personal name was popular in the Middle Ages due to the naming of Malcolm III and Queen Margaret's youngest son, David I, who reigned 1124–53; See Davidson and Davie.

2 English: relationship name; the 1298 example from a Calais document shows that Middle English Dawe was sometimes a pet form of David. This personal name was not especially common in medieval England, but occurs more often in the south-west and along the Welsh Marches. Any or all the following early bearers may alternatively belong under (1).

Early bearers: given names: Daud Anglicus, 1294, identical with Dauwe l’Engleis, 1298 in L’Onomastique calaisienne.

3 English: nickname; no examples of Dawe preceded by the definite article have yet been found, but a nickname from Middle English dawe ‘jackdaw’ cannot be ruled out as a possible source of the modern surname, perhaps with the sense ‘stupid fellow’.

4 Irish: from Ó Deaghaidh, ‘descendant of Deaghadh’, a personal name of uncertain origin. It may be from deagh- ‘good’ + *ád*h ‘luck, fate’; some such association seems to lie behind its anglicization as Goodwin.

Early bearers: Cormack O’Dawe, 1559 in Fiants Elizabeth §1559.

English: occupational name from Middle English dauber, doubber, dober, Anglo-Norman French daubour ‘whitewasher, plasterer’. The surname may sometimes have become confused with Dubber.
Further information: In the Middle Ages walls of wattle and daub were extremely common. Wattle consisted of a row of upright stakes, the spaces between filled with interwoven twigs, hazel rods, osiers, reeds, etc. Clay or earth, usually mixed with cow dung and hair, was daubed onto this frame, pressed well into the interstices, and the surfaces smoothed. Once dry, they were usually treated with plaster or at least a coat of whitewash. Closely allied to daubing was pargetting or rough-casting, in which mortar or a coarse form of plaster was used instead of clay or loam. At Corfe in 1285 there is a reference to ‘Stephen the Dauber who pargetted the long chamber’, and it is not always possible to decide whether the daubers were really daubing or whitewashing (Salzman, Building, pp. 188, 190, 191). Compare Pargeter.

Dawney

Norman, English: locative name from one of the many places in northern France named from an alder grove (Old French aulnai, aulnoi, latinized as alnetum), such as Annay (Pas-de-Calais), Aulnay (Aube, Marne, Calvados), Aulnois (Aisne), and Aunay (Calvados, Eure-et-Loire, Seine-et-Oise). With fused preposition, Anglo-Norman French d'Aunai became Dawnay, Dawney and (with loss of the final syllable) Dawn. Laney is another form of this surname with fused definite article. See also Dando, from Anglo-Norman French d'Aunou, with which d'Aunai may sometimes have been confused. Further information: A family of this name trace their descent from Sir Nicholas Daunay, who was summoned to Parliament in the 14th century. They now hold the title of Viscount Downe. Early bearers: John de Alnai, 1150–60 in Danelaw Documents (Lincs); Reginald de Auney, 1242 in Book of Fees (Devon); Mathew Dauney, 1251 in Whitby Chartulary (Yorks); John de Aune, 1269 in Forde Abbey Cartulary (Devon); Nicholas Daune, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Goodrington, Devon); Johanne Dawneye, 1379 in Poll Tax (Little Bedwyn, Wilts); Alexander de Anne (for de Aune), 1379 in Poll Tax (Frickley, WR Yorks); Johanne Daunay, 1379 in Poll Tax (Hotham, WR Yorks); Willelmus Dawnay, 1379 in Poll Tax (Linton, WR Yorks); Jenet Dawnay, 1564 in IGI (Snaith, WR Yorks); Christian Dawnay, 1635 in IGI (Carlton in Lindrick, Notts); Thomas Dawnay, 1641 in IGI (Saint Swithin London Stone, London); Henry Dawnay, 1733 in IGI (Westminster, Middx). References: Dauzat and Rostaing, at Annay.

- 1 English: relationship name, 'son of Dawe'. The Middle English personal name Daw(e) is sometimes a pet form of David (See (3) below) but more generally of Rauf or Raw (i.e. Ralph), of which Daw(e) is a rhyming form (See Daw). Dawson is one of the most numerous patronymic surnames, and Ralph was a much commoner personal name than David, especially in the north Midlands and north of England, where most names in -son have arisen. Early bearers: Thomas Daweson, 1326 in Wakefield Court Rolls (WR Yorks); Richard Dauwesone, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Warwicks); Ricardo Dawesone, 1379 in Poll Tax (Grimston, Leics); Nicholaus Dauson', 1379 in Poll Tax (Harewood, WR Yorks); Johannes Dauson, 1379 in Poll Tax (Lonsdale, Lincs); John Daweson, 1451 in PROB 11; Dorathy Dawson, 1542 in IGI (Lincoln, Lincs); Raffe Dauson, 1565 in IGI (Kirkham, Lincs); Mathew Dauson, 1574 in IGI (Dewsbury, WR Yorks).

1 English: occupational name from Middle English day(e), dey(e) 'dairy maid', sometimes 'a woman who keeps cows and other farm stock' (compare the 1221 example). Originally used only of women, it was later used of men with the sense 'a man in charge of the dairy cattle'. The earliest examples below (about 1055 and about 1095) are almost certainly used in the original sense. Some of the following early bearers may alternatively belong under (2) or (3). Early bearers: N England: Willelmus Day, 1377 in Poll Tax (Ellerton, ER Yorks); Thomas Day, 1377 in Poll Tax (Carthorpe, NR Yorks); Robertus Day, 1379 in Poll Tax (Monk Bretton, WR Yorks); Willelmus Day, 1381 in Poll Tax (Cottingham, ER Yorks); Thomas Day, 1406 in Feet of Fines (Malton, NR Yorks); Ambrosius Day, 1560 in IGI (York); Jane Day, 1564 in IGI

2 English: relationship name from the personal name Day, Dey, in W England probably a pet form of David but in N England and perhaps elsewhere also a late Middle English variant of Daw, a pet form of Ralph (See Dakin). Compare Dayson.

Early bearers: Roger filius Daye, 1300 in Gisborough Cartulary (Yorks).

3 Welsh: relationship name from the Welsh personal name Dai, a pet form of Dafydd, Welsh form of David. The 1415 example is too early to have given rise to a hereditary surname in Wales, but post-medieval instances of the name in Wales and the bordering English counties may alternatively be from the English name in (2); for other possible early bearers See (1).

Early bearers: Lewelin ap Day, 1415 in Morgan and Morgan; Richard Day, 1628 in IGI (Bangor is y coed, Flints); Elinor Day, 1730 in IGI (Abergavenny, Monmouths); William Day, 1806 in IGI (Llantrisant, Glamorgan).

1 English: (i) relationship name from the Middle English personal name Dayman. It may be from Old English **Dægmann*, perhaps a pet form of names in Dæg- or else a transferred use of the word in (ii), similar in usage to Old English Flotmann 'sailor' and Gliwmann 'minstrel'. Alternatively it may be a pet form of the Middle English personal name Day, to which the hypocoristic suffix -man has been added. Day is sometimes a short form of David but is also a 14th-century variant of Daw, a rhyming pet form of Ralph; compare Gilbertus Dawman, 1379 in Poll Tax (Sedgeford, Norfolk), and Willelmus Dawman', 1379 in Poll Tax (Humberton, WR Yorks). See Day and Daw, and for the suffix See Bateman, Hickman, Human, Pateman, Potman. Some of the following early bearers may alternatively belong under (2). (ii) occupational name, perhaps for a dairyman, from Middle English daie 'man in charge of dairy cattle' + man 'servant, worker'. The addition of -man seems unnecessary if it synonymous with daie but the definite article in the 1332 example indicates that in this case at least a Middle English noun is the source rather than a personal name. (iii) occupational name, status name, 'servant of a man named Day'.

Early bearers: given names: Dayman Buntynge, 1221 in Cotton Tiberius B ii (Cambs).

surnames: Stephen Deyman, 1224 in Curia Regis Rolls (Bucks); Robert Deyman, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Clovelly, Devon); Richard le Deymon, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Staffs); Henricus Deyman, 1377 in Poll Tax (Obridge (Prior), Somerset); Willelmus Deyman, 1379 in Poll Tax (Halvergate, Norfolk); Johannes Dayman', 1379 in Poll Tax (Rufforth, WR Yorks); Henricus Daymon, 1381 in Poll Tax (Little Baddow, Essex); Richard Deyman, 1405 in Feet of Fines (Crediton, Devon); John Deyman, 1434 in Feet of Fines (Devon); Andrew Deyman, 1549 in IGI (Bridford, Devon); John Damont, 1581 in PROB 11 (Mendlesham, Suffolk); William Deymont, 1615 in PROB 11 (Swimbridge, Devon); Elizabeth Dayman, 1687 in IGI (Morwenstow, Cornwall); William Dayman, 1724 in IGI (Kilkhampton, Cornwall); Elizabeth Dayman, 1760 in IGI (Pancrasweek, Devon); Hannah Dayman, 1781 in IGI (Birmingham, Warwicks).

2 English: See Diamond. For some possible early bearers See also (1).

3 English: from Middle English Dame An(n)e 'Lady Anne', probably a pet form of Annes (Agnes). Compare Johanne Dameanneys, 1381 in Poll Tax (Lechlade, Gloucs). The bearer of the surname may have been a son or servant of Lady Anne. Whether this became a hereditary surname is unknown. Early bearers: Rogero Damane, 1379, Editha Damanne, 1379 in Poll Tax (Broad Hinton, Wilts).

1 Welsh: relationship name from the personal name Deiws, a pet form of David.

Further information: The suggestion in Reaney and Wilson that this name may alternatively derive from Middle English deye + hous 'dye house' is formally possible but there is no medieval evidence for such a surname.

References: Morgan and Morgan.

1 English: nickname from Middle English deken, dicoun 'deacon, a priest's assistant at church services' (Old French diacne, Old English diacon, dēacon). Since deacons were in holy orders they would not be allowed to marry, so the surname is probably in most cases a secular nickname rather than the name of a church official. The following post-medieval bearers may alternatively belong under (2).

Death

Variants: Deeth, De'Ath, De Ath, D'Eath, D'Eathe, Dearth

- GB frequency 1881: 1480
- Main GB location 1881: SE England: esp. Suffolk and Essex

English: nickname from Middle English deeth, deth, Old English dēap 'death', perhaps for someone who played the part of Death in a local pageant. Compare the figure of Death in the Chester mystery cycle. The traditional pronunciation of this surname is Deeth, which would be the normal development of Old English dēap. The spellings de'Ath, de Ath, D'Eath, etc., are post-medieval, introduced to dissociate the name from the negative connotations of the word. Further information: Two alternative senses proposed in Reaney, Dictionary, are less convincing. Gerardus de Athia, 1208 in Curia Regis Rolls (Gloucs) is the basis of a derivation from Ath in present-day Belgium, but this would become Ath or Dath not Death. Old English dýð 'tinder, fuel' is not recorded in Middle English, and the origins of its supposed derivatives, Dethewright and Deether, are also uncertain.

Early bearers: Robert Deth, 1196 in Pipe Rolls (Beds); Roger Deth, 1221 in Cotton Tiberius B ii (Cambs); Robert Death, 1272–1307 in Battle Abbey Customals (Sussex); Gilbert Deth, 1272 in Assize Rolls (Somerset); Roger Deth, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Suffolk); Alice Deth (Ded), William Deth (Det), Geoffrey Deth (Deet), 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Essex); Richard Deeth, 1346 in Patent Rolls (Suffolk); Ricardo le Deth, 1379 in Poll Tax (Parr, Lancs); Jacobo Deth', 1379 in Poll Tax (Ratby, Leics); John Deathe, 1584, Sarah Death, 1680 in IGI (Lavenham, Suffolk); Rebecca Death, 1614 in IGI (Cold Norton, Essex); William Death, 1741 in IGI (Edwardstone, Suffolk); Martha Death, 1742 in IGI (Writtle, Essex).

1 Norman, English: locative name from Déville in Seine-Maritime. The full form was de Daiville. When the preposition was omitted, Daiville was taken to be for de Aiville, hence Evill, from de (H)eville. Some of the following early bearers may belong under (2).

Further information: The de Daiville family held estates in Leics, Notts, and Yorks (See Domesday Descendants, p. 429), including the manor of Deyviltorp in Cauntoun (Notts), and Cotes de Val in Leics, recorded as Cotesdeywill, 1285 in Feudal Aids. A member of this family, John Deyville, was a supporter of Simon de Montfort, 6th Earl of Leicester, who led the rebellion against Henry III.

Early bearers: Walter de Davidisvilla, 1107 in Anglo-Norman Families; Robert de Aiuilla, 1175, de Daiuill', 1195 in Pipe Rolls (Yorks); Walter Daiville, 1184 in Templars Records (Lincs), de Daeuill', 1190 in Pipe Rolls (Rutland); Roger de Divill', 1198 in Curia Regis Rolls (Norfolk); Hugh Davilla, about 1200 in Rievaulx Cartulary (NR Yorks); John and Robert Deivil' or de Eyvill', 1235–6 in Book of Fees (Egmanton, Notts); Roger Deyvill, 1251 in Assize Rolls (Yorks); John de Eyvill, 1260 in Assize Rolls (Yorks); Robert de Hevill', de Heyvill', de Deyvill', de Aivill', 1235, 1242 in Book of Fees (Leics, Notts); John Dayvell, 1416 in Inquisitiones post Mortem (Bilton, WR Yorks); William Davell of Egmanton, 1433 in Inquisitiones post Mortem (Notts); Brian Dauell', 1461–83 in Feet of Fines (York); Richard Divill, 1553 in Whalley Abbey Coucher Book (Lancs); Francis Devall, 1571 in York Freemen's Register; Reynolde Devell, 1591 in PROB 11 (Leek, Staffs); George Deyvell, 1597, Elizabeth Divall, 1630 in IGI (Nottingham, Notts); Elizabeth Davell, 1602 in PROB 11 (Saint Andrew Undershaft, City of London); Anna Devell, 1613, Maria Devile, 1616, Richard Deyvell, 1640, Robard Devill, 1654 in IGI (Marchington, Staffs); Thomas Deville, 1656 in IGI (Hinckley, Leics); Tho Deavall, 1703 in IGI (Colton, Staffs); Johanes Devil, 1681, Mary Deaville, 1773 in IGI (Wirksworth, Derbys).

2 English: nickname from Middle English devel (Old English dēofol) 'devil, Satan', possibly acquired as a pageant name or as a reduced form of a longer nickname such as that of Robert and William Drepedevell ('kill the devil'), 1301 in Subsidy Rolls (Sutton Howgrave, in Kirklington, NR Yorks). Compare the synonymous Anglo-Norman French D(e)abel at Deeble. The name is latinized as diabolus in Laurencius dictus diabolus alias Stanford, 13th century in Cotton Nero E vi (Essex). Since an exchange of de and le is not uncommon in Anglo-Norman surnames, the 1305 and 1327 examples below could alternatively be for de Deyville, and some other examples given below could similarly belong with (1).

Early bearers: Aluinus Deule, 1086 in Domesday Book (Beds, Hunts); Robert Dyvel, 1301 in Subsidy Rolls (Wath in Hutton Conyers, NR Yorks); John le Deyvile, an alternative name for John Devile, 1305 in Suffolk Archaeology Proceedings; William Deuel, 1310 in Colchester Court Rolls (Essex); John Deuile, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Camsb); John le Deuyle, 1327 in Subsidy

Defoe

- GB frequency 1881: 24

- Main GB location 1881: Middx; also Essex

1 English: an altered form of Foe, see Fow.

Further information: The novelist and pamphleteer Daniel Defoe (about 1660–1731) was the son of James Foe, a London tallow chandler. He changed his name to Defoe in about 1703. Reaney suggests that Defoe might have been following a family tradition in insisting on the De, and that the name might be an alternative pronunciation of the English name de Vaux (See Vaus), but the evidence is too slight and tangential to evaluate. The presence in London of the Huguenot surnames Devaux and Dufou are more relevant, since Defoe was a champion of Protestant immigrant rights. See (2), (3), and compare Devos (3).

Early bearers: Martha Defoe, 1709 in IGI (Faversham, Kent); Daniel de Foe, 1720 in IGI (Hoxton, Middx); Hester Defoe, 1738 in IGI (Westminster, Middx); Catharine Defoe, 1774, Samuel Devo, 1866 in IGI (Shoreditch, Middx).

- Main GB location 1881: Durham

English: nickname, perhaps from Middle English **dighti* ‘doughty’, and therefore a variant of Doughty, especially in the form Daughty, also spelled Dafty, as the following bearers seem to illustrate. Alternatively from an unrecorded suffixed variant of the Middle English adjective defte, dafte ‘meek, humble’ or ‘skilful’ (Old English daefte); compare Daft. This would also explain the variation in the surname forms below, but in the absence of any medieval evidence for this word or name this explanation must remain doubtful.

Demain

- Current frequencies: GB 209, Ireland 0

- GB frequency 1881: 191
- Main GB location 1881: WR Yorks and Lancs

Norman, English: (i) locative name, perhaps a variant of Main (4) or (5) with fused Old French preposition de 'from'. Compare Margareta Mayne, 1379 in Poll Tax (Skipton, WR Yorks), though this name may alternatively derive from an Old French personal name or nickname. If the Skipton spellings Demand(e), Demaund, and Demaynd belong to Demain, and do not represent a different surname, they have an excrescent -d, influenced perhaps by the word demand. (ii) relationship name, perhaps a variant of Diamond (3). False association with the word demand would explain the shift of stress on to the second syllable, but the development to Demain, especially the change in the quality of the vowel, is more puzzling.

Further information: Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames, notes that Demand and Demain have had a history in or near Skipton since the 16th century, but finding no earlier evidence for them, Redmonds suggests that they originated in S Lancs, where McKinley discovered a Walter le Demon (1323), a tenant at Tarleton (Lancs), who was also called Walter Demester ('judge'), and members of whose family were also known as le Demand (Surnames of Lancs, p. 284). Demon and Demand cannot be formal or semantic variants of Demester. Perhaps the definite article is a scribal error, in which case Demon and Demand could derive from the Middle English female personal name Diamand. It is possibly attested in the surnames of Johannes Deman, 1379 in Poll Tax (Lonsdale wapentake, Lancs), and Robertus Dymond', Willelmus Dymmond', 1379 in Poll Tax (Carlton, near Royston, WR Yorks); but these are well away from Tarleton and Skipton. If Margareta Mayne, 1379 in Poll Tax (Skipton, WR Yorks), shows a clipped form of Demain, this would be the earliest record of the name in the area and point to a WR Yorks origin. Early bearers: John Demayn, 1489 in PROB 11; John Demande, 1576 in York Registry Wills (Skipton, WR Yorks); Christopher Demand, 1598 in Parish Registers (Skipton, WR Yorks); Thomas Demayne, 1605 in IGI (Burnsall in Craven, WR Yorks); Sara Demain, 1613, John Demande, 1631, Franceys Demaund, 1655, Francys Demaynd, 1658 in IGI (Skipton, WR Yorks); Agnes Demaine, 1618 in IGI (Linton, WR Yorks); Robert Demeane, 1641, Mary Demand, 1764 in IGI (Leeds, WR Yorks); William Dumaine, 1693 in IGI (Fewston, WR Yorks); Thomas Dumayne, 1716 in Parish Registers (Bettwys, Monmouths); Joseph Demayne, 1739 in IGI (Kirkby Malham, WR Yorks); John Demayn, 1758 in IGI (Rylstone, WR Yorks); Mary Demane, 1759 in IGI (Lancaster, Lancs); Thomas Demain, 1804 in IGI (Wigan, Lancs); Pratt Demain, 1815 in IGI (Low Row, NR Yorks).

name of Joh. le Dethewright', 1299 in Gaol Delivery Rolls (Essex), Le Dedewrithe, le Dedewrighte, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Essex). There is no convincing explanation of this term. Neither 'maker of fuel or tinder' (from Old English dȳð 'tinder'), as suggested in Fransson, nor 'executioner, murderer' in MED, are likely senses involving Middle English wright 'carpenter, joiner, manufacturer' as a second element. In the W Midlands, Old English dȳð would have appeared as Middle English **duth* rather than deth.

3 Swiss French: relationship name, anglicized form of the Swiss name Thevoz, French Thèvozt, a pet form of the personal name Etève (Stephen). Devoe and Defoe are two of many altered forms of this name in N America. It is possible but unproven that this is another source of these names in England.

Further information: According to family name historians, this name was brought to England by Daniel Thevoz or Thevou, who was born in 1665 in Missy, Vaud canton, Switzerland. He and his wife and children were among a number of impoverished Swiss who joined many SW Germans in the Palatine migration of 1709, fleeing the ravages of a winter famine and the French army to seek refuge in England. There the British government put them in camps in Camberwell and Blackheath, south of London, before shipping most of them to the American colonies in 1710. In the London provisioning lists he was named Daniel Deffu. He settled in Germantown, Albany county (New York State). It may be nothing more than a curious onomastic coincidence that the English writer and polemicist Daniel Defoe wrote a fierce defence of the ‘poor Palatines’ in his journal The Review (June 21–August 22, 1709). There is no evidence that the London families called Devo(e) and Defoe have any connection with this American or Swiss family. See Defoe.

See also Dee. Early bearers: Ieuan Teewe, 1292 in Morgan and Morgan (Subsidy Rolls); Ithel Du, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Shrops); Jeuan Duy, 1392 in Chirkland Extent; Rees ap Tudor Dew, 1406 in Morgan and Morgan (Anglesey Submissions); Ameer Dew, 1628 in IGI (Upton Bishop, Herefs); Daniel Dew, 1682 in IGI (Monmouth, Monmouths); Thomas Dew, 1813 in IGI (Beaumaris, Anglesey).

- Main GB location 1881: Kent

English: (i) possibly a nickname from Middle English dilnote 'dill nut', a name for one of several umbelliferous plants with edible tubers, also known as earth nuts. (ii) perhaps a relationship name from an unrecorded Middle English personal name **Dilnot* (Old English **Dilnōð*). Compare Dil and the surname of Philip Dylewyne, Mariot Dylewyne, 1275 in Hundred Rolls (Norfolk), which looks like another unrecorded Old English personal name, **Dilwine*.

Further information: The difficulty with the latter proposition is that although -nōð and -wyne are regular second elements in Old English personal names, the first element, Dil-, is not otherwise known in the Germanic name-stock. Possibly **Dilnōð* and **Dilwine* are joking inversions of the well attested Old English personal names Beorhtnōð and Beorhtwine, with the substitution of **dyl* 'dull' for beorht 'bright'.

Early bearers: Robertus Dilnote, 1381 in Poll Tax (Kent); William Dilnot or Dylnot, 1559 in PROB 11 (Lympne, Kent); Anne Dilnot, 1630 in IGI (Hernhill, Kent); Catherine Dilnott, 1684 in IGI (Bekesbourne, Kent); Valentine Dilnot, 1739 in IGI (Sutton near Deal, Kent); Rejoyce Dilnot, 1758 in IGI (Eastry, Kent); James Dilnutt, 1812 in IGI (Dover, Kent).

Dime

Variants: Dimes

- Current frequencies: GB 10, Ireland o
- GB frequency 1881: 1

1 English: nickname, perhaps from Middle English dime (Old French disme) ‘a tenth part’, paid to the King as a subsidy or to the Church as a tithe. The name might have been given to a tax or tithe collector. Compare (2).

Further information: Wilson’s derivation in Reaney and Wilson from Middle English (Old English) dim ‘dark, dusky’ (but more relevantly ‘unable to see well’, ‘ignorant, dim-witted’) accounts for medieval names like Nicholas Dym, 1289 in Assize Rolls (Wilts), Thomas Dymme, 1359 in Inquisitiones post Mortem (Gloucs), and Thomas Dym, 1379 in Poll Tax (Harborough Magna, Warwicks). However, dim is unlikely to have developed to Dime (with a long vowel). The relationship between Andrew Dim, 1587 in IGI (Cley next the Sea, Norfolk), and Lennard Dim, 1814 in IGI (Norwich, Norfolk), with the Norfolk name Dyme, Dime is unclear.

Early bearers: Thomas Dyme, 1381 in Poll Tax (Cressenhall, Norfolk); Ann Dyme, 1540 in IGI (Rye, Sussex); Susan Dyme, 1562 in IGI (Ringwould, Kent); Deborah Dime, 1698 in IGI (Norwich, Norfolk). 2 Huguenot: nickname, French Dime, apparently from Old French disme ‘tenth, tithe’, perhaps for a tithe collector.

Early bearers: Jean Dime, 1691, Marie Dime, 1721 in IGI (Threadneedle Street French Huguenot Church, London).

Redmonds suggests that Robert Dobyng, 1383 in Yorks Deeds (West Bretton, in Sandal, WR Yorks) is identical with Robert Dowbyng, a lawyer who held land near Wakefield 1400–16 and was presumably an ancestor of John Dowebyng, 1430 in Yorks Deeds (West Bretton, in Sandal, WR Yorks). He also notes the appearance in the Ingleton parish registers of Lawrence Dobbigin (1627), Elizabeth Dabkin (1633), and Lancelot Dobikin (1652). This form of the name may no longer exist.

English: (i) relationship name, variant of Duckett with voicing of the medial consonant. (ii) relationship name, it may also be from a Middle English rhyming pet form of Roger (See Dodge) + the diminutive suffix -et. Whether the medial -g- was pronounced as a stop /g/ (as in dog) or an affricate /dʒ/ (as in Roger) is impossible to tell in most of the following examples. (iii) nickname; it has been claimed that it may also be from Middle English dogheved ‘dog-head’, as in Syward Dogheafd, 1177–95 in Hatton’s Book of Seals (Derbys). Compare Matthew Doggenecce (‘dog neck’) 1275 in Hundred Rolls (Lincs), Symon Doggeschanke (‘dog leg’), about 1246 in Calverley Charters (Yorks), Lucas Dogge(s)tayl, 1279–80 in Kökeritz, IoW, p. 10, and Johannes Dogleg, 1379 in Poll Tax (Patcham, Sussex). However, names of this type have rarely survived as hereditary names. Further information: Doggetts Farm in Rochford, Essex, gets its name from Robert Dogett or Doccett, recorded as living here in 1305. The surname Dogget has been established in Leinster (Ireland) since the 13th century. There is no evidence to support the explanation in Reaney and Wilson that Doget was a diminutive of Middle English dog ‘dog, cur’, though a nickname from dog itself is attested in Roger le Doge, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex), and perhaps in Rogerus Canis, 1200 in Curia Regis Rolls (Cambs) (Latin canis ‘dog’). Compare Curr.

English: (i) nickname from an unrecorded Middle English **dolling*, **douling*, **dulling* ‘dull or stupid one’. Compare Doll. Post-medieval examples of the name may also have arisen from a late assimilation of rl to ll in Dorling, a variant of Darling: Samuel Dorling, 1770, is identical with Samuel Dolling, 1782, in Parish Registers (West Stow, Suffolk). Here the pronunciation of the first syllable of Dolling may alternatively be with a short o like that in modern doll.

Further information: The -ow- in Dowling, Dowlen, and Dowland may be an alternative spelling of the -oll- in Dolling (rhyming with rolling), but it probably also reflects an alternative development of Middle English -oll- (late Middle English -oul-) to -ul-, which became early Modern English [ʌl], rhyming with owl. See also Dowland.

French: locative name from Aumale, Seine-Maritime département, France, which is, in semi-latinized form, the source of the English noble title of Albemarle (several creations), with the preposition de 'of, from'. There are idiomatic expressions in Jersey French which suggest that maille and male were sometimes pronounced alike in the Channel Islands. In France itself, Jehan Sire de Rieux, de Rochefort, et d'Ancenis signed himself as Comte d'Aumaille in 1489; a d'Aumaille family is recorded in Normandy in the 16th century.

English: nickname, occupational name from the Middle English adjective double 'being a pair of similar things', or the noun 'twin', + daie 'dairyman, dairywoman'. See Dobel and Day. The sense is uncertain, perhaps 'one of a pair of dairymen or women', or 'one who doubles up as a dairyman or dairywoman', or even one of a pair of twins who were dairy workers, though this is less likely since the surname seems to have arisen independently in several counties. Compare Johannes Doubylknnyth, 1377 in Poll Tax (Draughton, WR Yorks).

1 German: nickname from Middle High German dri(e) 'three', German drei + the suffix -er. This was the name of a medieval coin, and it is possible that the German surname may have been derived from this word. More probably, however, the nickname is derived from some other connection with the number three. Some examples may belong under (2). Further information: In Continental Europe this is also found as an Ashkenazic Jewish name, of the same derivation as above, or from Yiddish dreyer 'turner', or from a homonym meaning 'swindler, cheat'. However, evidence of Jewish bearers in the UK is lacking.

English: (i) nickname, usually from Middle English drinken + ale 'drink ale'. Redmonds, Dictionary of Yorks Surnames, points out that in Yorkshire it may have been an occupational nickname for an ale taster, citing William Drynkale, ale taster, 1362 in Court Rolls (Bradford, WR Yorks). Compare Goodall, which probably had a similar application. However, the existence of parallel formations such as Drinkwater and the surname of Willelmo Drinkemyll, 1379 in Poll Tax (Hinckley borough, Leics), suggests that it may also have been given to someone who drew attention to himself through his drinking habits. (ii) nickname, occasionally perhaps, as Reaney suggests, from Middle English drinc hail 'drink good health or good luck', the customary response to the toast wes hail ('wassail'). Its only certain record as a name is Drinc hala, 1200 in Caen Abbey Cartulary (Essex), where it appears to be a stand-alone nickname. The phrase may be Old Scandinavian in origin (compare kom heill 'welcome!'), and hala would represent an Old English adaptation (hǣl) of the Old Scandinavian heill 'good luck'. In ordinary Middle English, however, the expression maintained its Scandinavian form, so Drinkhale in the 1281 example below is more likely a variant of Drinkale in (i), as are certainly the later examples in -hall.

Further information: Ale tasters were court officials appointed to regulate the quality of locally sold ale and prevent ale wives and taverners from selling sour or watered-down ale.

Early bearers: Thomas Drinkhale, 1281 in London Letter Books B; Henry Drinkale, 1301 in Subsidy Rolls (Ormesby and Cargo Fleet, NR Yorks); Willelmus Drinkale, 1379 in Poll Tax (Lonsdale wapentake, Lincs); Thomas Drynkale, 1379 in Poll Tax (Drax, WR Yorks); Willelmus Drinkale, 1379 in Poll Tax (Drighlington, WR Yorks); John Drynkall, 1509 in York Guild Register; William Drynkell, 1559 in York Freeman's Register; Henricus Drinkall, 1565 in IGI (Whitgift, WR Yorks); Margret Drinkell, 1588 in IGI (Crowle, Lincs); Richard Drinkhall, 1665 in IGI (Broughton by Brigg, Lincs); Nicholas Drinkeld, 1677 in Lancs Wills; Jno. Compare Ranulph Dryngedregges, 1309 in Patent Rolls (Lincs); Willelmo Drinkemyll, 1379 in Poll Tax (Hinckley borough, Leics); Adam Drinckmilke, 1674 in Hearth Tax (Suffolk).

2 English: relationship name from the Middle English personal name Duk or Duke. In N England this is usually a pet form of Marmaduke (See Duckett and Duxon). It may alternatively be a survival of one or more Old English personal names, though it is uncertain that they were still current in the period of surname formation. Old English **Ducc(a)* is attested in place-names like Duxford (Cambs) and Duckington (Cheshire), and was perhaps interchangeable with **Docc*, attested in Doxey (Staffs) and Doxford (Northumb). Duke could also represent Old English Deowuc (as in Deuxhill, Shrops). For possible early bearers See (1).

Further information: A surname from Marmaduke is on record until at least 1881 and derives from the personal name Marmaduke, apparently an Anglo-Norman French pronunciation of Old Irish Maelmaedoc 'devotee of Maedoc'. The personal name is chiefly found in N England: Melmidoc, 1086 in Domesday Book (Yorks); Marmaduc de Ar' 1154–89 in Gilbertine Charters (Lincs); Marmaduc Darel, 1182 in Pipe Rolls (Yorks); Marmaduc Darell, 1219 in Assize Rolls (Yorks); Marmaduc de Tweng, 1219 in Assize Rolls (Thwing, ER Yorks); Marmaduce de Lomley, 1348 in Feet of Fines (Lumley, Durham).

1 Scottish: locative name from Duns (Berwicks), which is thought to be the place from which John Duns Scotus (See (2) below) came.

Early bearers: Hugh de Duns, 1166–79 in Melrose Register (Lammermuir, E Lothian); Robert de Duns, chaplain, 1203–11 in Kelso Register (Birnie, Morays); Robert de Douns, 1296 in Scotland Calendar (Berwick); William de Duns, 1426 in Great Seal of Scotland; Alesone Duns, 1626 in IGI (Duns, Berwicks).

2 Scottish: nickname. The word dunce is not recorded in OED before 1527. It is derived from the name of John Duns Scotus, the scholastic theologian, and in the 16th century was used to denote a disciple or follower of his, a schoolman, a subtle, sophistical reasoner. When his system was attacked and ridiculed by humanists and reformers, it came to denote 'a blockhead incapable of learning or scholarship', and hence a dull pedant, a dullard. The surname, found so soon after the death of the 'Subtle Doctor' in 1308, cannot have originated with any derogatory meaning. It is presumably equivalent to 'Duns' man', i.e. a scholar who followed Duns Scotus's system.

Early bearers: William le Duns, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); William Douns, Cristina le Douns, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); Thomas Dunce, 1564 in IGI (Selborne, Hants).

Eddowes

- Variants: Eddows
- Current frequencies: GB 262, Ireland 0
  - GB frequency 1881: 228
  - Main GB location 1881: Cheshire, Staffs, Lancs, and Shrops
- English: (i) apparently a variant of Edowe + post-medieval excrescent -s, but the origin of Edowe is obscure. It might have arisen from an English misinterpretation of Welsh Beddow as ap Eddow, on the model of Welsh surname variations like Evan and Bevan. It occurs only after the medieval period of surname formation: Thomas Edowe, 1595 in IGI (Manchester, Lancs); Rowland Edow, 1603, Jane Eddowe, 1605, Richard Edo, 1697 in IGI (Nuneaton, Warwicks); Jane Edo, 1604, William Edoe, 1612 in IGI (Mancetter, Warwicks); David Edow, 1612 in IGI (Chester, Cheshire). Variation with -s-forms is rare but includes John Edowes, 1609, Elinor Edowe, 1613 in IGI (Holborn, Middx); Randall Eddow, 1626, Richard Eddows, 1635 in IGI (Malpas, Cheshire), and Ran. Eddow, 1652, Roger Eddows, 1678 in IGI (Whitchurch, Shrops). Potential evidence for variation with Beddow(s) in the same parishes is also difficult to find: Randall Eddowes, 1656, John Beddow, 1673, Eleanor Beddows, 1741 in IGI (Malpas, Cheshire); Raphe Edowes, 1656, Edward Beddoes, 1729 in IGI (Oswestry, Shrops). In these instances Eddow(s) always appears earlier than Beddow(s), and the two names may originally have had nothing to do with each other. (ii) an alternative possibility is that Edowe was back-formed from Edowes, in which case Edowes would be a variant of Edis, from the Middle English female personal name Edus. Compare Edusecros, about 1301 in Place-Names of Cheshire 1, p. 124, recorded in Macclesfield, where (no doubt coincidentally) the surname Eddows appears some 400 years later. For this name in East Anglia and the London area see also Edhouse. Early bearers: Richard Eddows, 1635 in IGI (Malpas, Cheshire); William Edowes, 1630 in IGI (Whittington, Shrops); Jno. Eddows, 1715 in IGI (Manchester, Lancs); Betty Edows, 1734 in IGI (Macclesfield, Cheshire).

Edgoose

- Current frequencies: GB 76, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 56
- Main GB location 1881: Norfolk

English: relationship name from the Middle English female personal name Edcus, a pet form of names beginning in Ed-, especially Edith, using the hypocoristic suffix -cus. For example, Edecusa, wife of Jonkin messor ('hayward'), listed as a brewer in 1313 in the Dyffryn Clwyd Court Rolls (Denbighs), is probably the same woman as Edith, wife of John Haiward, named as a landholder in the following year, while Edcus de Wendlok (1342) is named as Edith de Wenlok (1344) in the same records. This pet form is recorded sporadically across medieval England, but the modern surname evidently originated in Lincs.

Further information: Michael Edgoose notes that 'the name Atgoos can be found in the 14th-century court rolls of the Manor of Poplar in Middlesex and the names Atgoos and Etgoos in 15th-century Wapping', and that the family name in Quadring (Lincs) is later recorded as Etgosse, Edgoose (1521), Edgosse (1525), and Edgoose (1541). He states that in Cheshire Etkus and Etegos were synonymous in 1371 and 1372, and Edcus and Etgoose in 1440 and 1441. It might lie behind the Cheshire surname Etches.

Early bearers: given names: Edecusa, daughter of Jordan, 1306, Edecusa, wife of Jonkin messor, 1313, Edcus de Wendlok, 1342 in Dyffryn Clwyd Court Rolls (Ruthin, Denbighs).

Edman

Variants: Edmans, Adman, Addyman

- Current frequencies: GB 39, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 41
- Main GB location 1881: Lincs

1 English: relationship name from the Middle English personal name Ed(e)man, occasionally Ad(e)man, from Old English **Eadmān*. Perhaps by association with Middle English edi (Old English ēadig 'rich, fortunate'), the personal name also appears as Ediman and Adiman, giving rise to modern Addyman and the now extinct Eadiman, Eadyman, Eddiman, and Eddyman.

Further information: It is theoretically possible, as Reaney suggests, that the surnames Edeman, Ediman, etc. were occupational, meaning 'Ede's or Edy's servant' (see Ede, Eady), but the evidence shows that Middle English Edeman and Ediman were personal names in their own right, and these are the more likely sources of the surnames.

Early bearers: given names: Ediman Cumin, 1295–7 in Pipe Rolls (Northants); Edman' Diriuol, 1327, identical with Edimannus Drituol, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Norfolk); Edman' filius Willelmi, 1327, identical with Ediman filius Willelmi, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Norfolk).

Edman, 1765 in IGI (Beesby in the Marsh, Lincs).

References: Seltén, Anglo-Saxon Heritage, p. 69; McClure, Jack I, p. 113.

2 English: variant of Edmond. In Middle English, Edmund (also occasionally found as Admund) was probably sometimes confused with Edman and Adman, and the resulting surnames were almost certainly interchangeable in post-medieval times. Compare Ann Edmunds, 1771, Moses Edman, 1822 in IGI (Bardney, Lincs), and Edward Edman, 1628, John Edmand, 1711 (Saint Paul, Canterbury, Kent).

  - Main GB location 1881: Middx; Somerset
- English: relationship name probably from the Middle English female personal name Ethelburgh, **Elborow*, **Elbury*, representing the well attested Old English name Æðelburh. There is currently no medieval evidence for a surname derived from this but Redmonds, Christian Names, p. 7, notes the occurrence of Ethelburgh as a woman’s given name in Essex as late as 1381.

Further information: Derivation from a place-name is doubtful. Elberry in Churston Ferrers (Devon) is suggested by Wilson, but the place-name is not known before the modern OS maps. The editors of Place-Names of Devon, p. 511, suggest it is an altered form of Eleworthy, recorded once in 1278, and showing the same late substitution of -worthy by -berry as occurs in Butterberry in Petertavy (Devon). No evidence of a surname from Eleworthy has been found. Another possibility is Elbury (Hill) in Kingswood, Gloucs, but it was not a settlement and is not on record before 1455, so it is unlikely to have given rise to a surname. The origin of the name of Thomas de Elleb’ghe, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Westbury on Trym, Gloucs) is uncertain.

Early bearers: W. Elborow, 1541 in IGI (Charlton Kings, Gloucs); Christofer Elburie, 1566 in IGI (Black Torrington, Devon); Jane Elbrowe, 1571 in IGI (Purton, Wilts); William Elborowe, 1581 in IGI (Portishead, Somerset); Agnes Elborowe, 1583 in IGI (Henbury, Gloucs); Gulielmi Elborough, 1603, William Elborowe, 1607, Anne Elbrough, 1713 in IGI (Highworth, Wilts); Katherine Elberry, 1615 in IGI (Forest Hill, Oxon); Mary Elbery, 1618 in IGI (Canterbury, Kent); Richard Elburie, 1622 in IGI (Upton, Berks); William Elbro, 1629 in IGI (Aston, Warwicks); John Elburye, Richard Elberry, 1642 in Protestation Returns (Devon); William Elbrow, 1659 in IGI (Saint Bride Fleet Street, London); Martha Elbury, 1663 in IGI (Saint Nicholas at Wade, Kent); John Elborough, 1685 in IGI (Westminster, Middx); Sarah Elbery, 1686 in IGI (Wingham, Kent); Elizabeth Elborough, 1706 in IGI (Ampney Saint Peter, Gloucs); Daniel Elbury, 1718 in IGI (Bedminster, Somerset); Mary Elbury, 1726 in IGI (Dursley, Gloucs); John Elberry, 1743 in IGI (Kintbury, Berks); Samuel Elbrough, 1795 in IGI (Reading, Berks); James Elberry, 1854 in IGI (Saint Luke Old Street, Middx).

English: of uncertain origin. It looks like a locative name, but no suitable place-name has been identified in Scotland or NE England, where the surname is principally recorded, and neither Hilcott in Gloucs nor Hilcott in Wilts seem likely sources. A similar-looking surname (Helcote) is recorded in medieval Essex and in post-medieval E Anglia.

Perhaps this name migrated to NE England by the east coast trade route. The origin of Middle English (Helcote) is unclear but it might be a pet form of the female personal name (Helen) (see Ellen) + the rare hypocoristic suffix -cote. Alternatively, since -cock and -cot are commonly interchangeable in medieval and post-medieval surnames, Elcoat and Hillcoat could be variants of Elcock and Hillcock, but these names have not been noted in E Anglia, NE England, or Scotland.

Early bearers: SE England: John Elcote alias Helcote, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Corringham, Essex); Phillip Helcote, 1570 in IGI (Elsing, Norfolk); Robert Helcot, 1620, William Helcoate, 1674, Elizabeth Helcoat, 1727 in IGI (Lowestoft, Suffolk); Mathew Hilcot, 1650 in IGI (Litcham, Norfolk).

Norman, English: relationship name, perhaps from an Anglo-Norman French and early Middle English personal name **Helgi*, **Elgy*, derived from Old Scandinavian Helgi or Hælghi.

Further information: Old Scandinavian Helgi, Hælghi was widespread in medieval Scandinavia and used by Norsemen in Ireland and by Normans in Normandy before the Conquest. This could explain the early appearance of the name in Northumberland, where there was no settlement by pre-Conquest Scandinavians. Men with this name are recorded in 11th-century England in Domesday Book (Sussex and Notts) and in the Liber Vitae of Thorney Abbey (Cambs). It may account for the surnames of Adam Helgeye, 1379 in Poll Tax (Worstead, Norfolk), Willelmus Helgeye, 1379 in Poll Tax (Emneth, Norfolk), and Nicholaus Helgeye, 1379, Johannes Elgeye, 1379 in Poll Tax (Honing, Norfolk). If this derivation is correct, the surname spellings represent pronunciation with a hard not a soft 'g'.

The explanation in Reaney and Wilson that Elgee and Elgy are 'pet forms of Elgar' is implausible. Elgar is a Middle English form of an Old English dithematic (two-element) personal name, either Ælf-gār and Æðelgār (see Algar). The reduction of El-gar to Elg- and the addition of the suffix -y are not typical of the way in which pet forms of Old English dithematic names were composed.

Early bearers: Walter Elgy, 1269 in Assize Rolls (Northumb); John Elgy, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Northumb); Elizabeth Elgie, 1636, Henry Elgee, 1772, Elizabeth Elgy, 1834 in IGI (Auckland Saint Andrew, Durham); Ann Elgee, 1637 in IGI (Aycliffe, Durham); Johannes Elgee, 1667 in IGI (London); Sarah Elgey, 1776 in IGI (Hexham, Northumb).

1 English: relationship name from the Middle English female personal name Elen, Elin, Helen (Old French Helene, from Latin Helena, Greek Elenē, feminine of Elenos 'the bright one'). Some of the surname examples given may alternatively belong to Hellen (1), especially those in in Essex and E Anglia. Further information: The popularity of this as a given name is due largely to Saint Helena, mother of the Emperor Constantine, who was influential as a Christian proselytizer in Byzantium. Medieval English legend asserted, almost certainly wrongly, that she was of British origin.

The place-name means 'homestead of the Immingas', from an Old English group-name Immingas (genitive Imminga) + hām 'homestead, village, estate'. The etymology of Immingas itself is 'family or followers of a man called Imma', from the Old English personal name Imma + -ingas 'people of'.

Early bearers: Richard Emmeson, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Sussex); Robertus Hemson, 1379 in Poll Tax (Fishlake, WR Yorks); Adam Emson, 1379 in Poll Tax (Austwick, WR Yorks); Willelmus Emeson, 1381 in Poll Tax (Bransley, Shrops); John Atkynson Emeson, 1428 in Patent Rolls (Cumb); Richard Empson, 1498 in Chirkland Extent (Denbighs); Richard Empson, 1510 in Butley Priory Chronicle (Suffolk); Roger Hemson, Hempson, 1524 in Subsidy Rolls (Suffolk); Richard Empson, 1560 in IGI (Great Ryburgh, Norfolk); Jane Emson, 1563 in IGI (Monk Frystone, WR Yorks); Marmaduke Emson, 1563 in IGI (Pateley Bridge, WR Yorks); Katherina Empson, 1564, Matheus Emson, 1574 in IGI (Whitgift, WR Yorks); Isabell Emson, 1566 in IGI (Royston, WR Yorks); Edward Empson, 1565, William Emson, 1601 in IGI (Sausthorpe, Lincs).

2 English: reduced form of Emmerson. Compare Richard Emryson, Emereson, Empson, 1490–95 in Bardsley (Durham); Rowland Hempson, 1541, Henry Emerson, 1544 in IGI (Grimsby, Lincs); Alexander Emerson, 1559, John Emson, 1584, Wyllyam Empson, 1594 in IGI (Great Yarmouth, Norfolk); Annys Emmerson, 1573 in IGI, Elizabeth Empson, 1641, William Emson, 1657 in IGI (Little Plumstead, Norfolk).

Further information: The two names were no doubt confused, and it is possible that the reverse process sometimes occurred, whereby Em(m)erson was an alternative spelling of Emmeson, i.e. Em(p)son. In early Modern English, the consonant /r/ was sometimes vocalized in unstressed syllables and absorbed into the preceding vowel. This led to the occasional use of -er- as an alternative spelling of -e- in unstressed syllables. See Emmerson (2).

- English: (i) locative name perhaps from Elmdon (Essex), commonly recorded as Middle English Elmedon but also as Elmesdon, 1274, and Elmesden, 1288 in Assize Rolls (Essex). Assimilation of the -l- to the following -m- would explain the surname form Emsden, but there must be some uncertainty about this explanation as there is so little evidence for the more regular Elmdon or Elmden; George Elmden, 1585 in IGI (Weasenham All Saints, Norfolk) is a rare instance. (ii) alternatively perhaps a variant of Amsden, a name found in the S Midlands (especially Bucks and Beds). German, Dutch, Jewish (Ashkenazic): nickname, relationship name from the vocabulary word Engel 'angel' or, more often, a shortened form of a personal name such as Engelbert or Engelhard. In some cases, the surname denoted someone living at a house bearing the sign of an angel. As a Jewish family name, it was probably acquired as an ornamental or handout name.

Further information: The surname Engel is recorded in England from as early as the 16th century, but in most if not all cases it seems to be an immigrant name from the Netherlands or Germany.

Early bearers, Dutch: Maryan Engel, 1568 in IGI (Winwick, Hunts); Joannes Engel, 1656 in IGI (Dutch Church, Colchester, Essex); Mary Engel, 1684 in IGI (Downham, Cambs).

English, Huguenot: from the Old French personal name Engilbert, Engelbert (Continental Germanic Engelbert, Ingelbert 'Angle glorious').

Further information: The personal name was quite frequent in England in the Middle Ages, but fell out of use here. Some or all modern bearers of the surname probably derive from Huguenot or later immigrants from France.

English: (i) locative name from Middle English Engelond 'England'. It is not clear why the surname 'England' should have arisen in England. It may have arisen as a formal alternative to English, which is also well evidenced as a surname in England. For Irish early bearers, see Angland. (ii) locative name occasionally perhaps for someone who lived by or was a tenant of meadow land (Middle English eng, ing 'meadow' + land). Place-names include England Hill in Owthorne (ER Yorks) (recorded as Heynglant in 1260 and as Ingeland in 1339) and a meadow in North Duffield (ER Yorks) named lez Englandes in 1407 (Yorks Deeds). However, there is no evidence to support the theory that these microtoponyms gave rise to a surname.

Early bearers: Nicholas de Engelond, 1260 in Assize Rolls (Cambs); William de Engellande, 1284 in Wakefield Court Rolls (Sowerby, WR Yorks); William de Engelond, 1295 in Assize Rolls (Cheshire); John Ingelond (Engelond), 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Essex); Henry de Engeland, 1335 in York Freeman's Register; John de Ingelond, 1379 in Poll Tax (Thruscross, WR Yorks); Johannes Ynglond, 1379 in Poll Tax (Yarmouth, IoW); Willelmo Ynggelond', 1379 in Poll Tax (Sparkenhoe Hundred, Leics); Willelmo Ynggelond, 1379 in Poll Tax (Tidcombe and Marten, Wilts); Ricardus Englund, 1379 in Poll Tax (Wollaston, Northants); Roberto Englonde, 1379 in Poll Tax (Pitminster, Somerset); Ricardus Ynglande, 1381 in Poll Tax (Newbald, ER Yorks); Joan England, 1550 in IGI (Hooton Pagnell, WR Yorks); Leonardus England, 1575 in IGI (Sheffield, WR Yorks).

French, English: nickname perhaps, if the 1275 Lincs name is reliable and relevant, from Old French a(u)ngle de Dieu, Latin angelus dei 'angel of God', with substitution of Middle English engel for Anglo-Norman French aungel. It remains a possibility that Engledow or Ingledew is a corruption of some other name. 1 English, Scottish, Welsh: ethnic name from Middle English Englisshe, Inglish, Inglis 'English'

(Old English Englisc), sometimes alternating with Anglo-Norman French Engleis, Engles, Anglais, Angles (Old French Englois). For some generations after the Norman Conquest a distinction was made between Franci (the conquering Norman incomers) and Angli (the native, defeated English), the latter term having unflattering overtones. This usage may account for 12th- and early 13th-century examples of the surname in English counties away from the borders with Wales and Scotland, where the name more likely distinguished an Englishman from a Celt or an English speaker from a speaker of Welsh or Gaelic. The name may also have been acquired by English merchants who traded abroad. Compare Inglis and England.

Further information: In the 13th and 14th centuries French l'Englois and l'Engleis are found as surnames in Paris and London. Baudet le Engleis (1311 in London Letter Books D) was the valet of John Hauekyn, merchant, of Saint Quentin.

Early bearers: England: Gillebertus Anglicus, 1171 in Pipe Rolls (Herefs); Robert le Engleis, 12th cent. in Danelaw Documents (Leics); Adam le Englis, 1194–1211 in Black (Cumb); William le Engles, 1205 in Oseney Cartulary (Oxon); Gilbert Engleis, 1208 in Curia Regis Rolls (Essex); Nicholas le Engleys, 1269 in Assize Rolls (Northumb); John (le) Englishe, 1317 in Assize Rolls (Kent); Johannes Inglys and Johanna Englys, 1377 in Poll Tax (Holcombe, Oxon); Johannes Inglys, 1377 in Poll Tax (Kingston upon Hull, ER Yorks); Johannes Angles, 1379 in Poll Tax (Strettington, Sussex); Johanne Englysch', 1379 in Poll Tax (Eaton Socon, Beds); Johanne Englesse, 1379 in Poll Tax (Newtown Linford, Leics); Johannes Engleys, 1379 in Poll Tax (Church Stowe, Northants); Johannes Englis, 1379 in Poll Tax (Ashill, Norfolk); Ricardo Henglyssh', 1379 in Poll Tax (Chilton Foliat, Wilts); Johanna Englyssh', 1379 in Poll Tax (Butleigh, Somerset); Johannes Inglays, 1379 in Poll Tax (Boroughbridge, WR Yorks); Ricardus Englysh', 1381 in Poll Tax (Shalford, Surrey); Henricus Englyssh, 1381 in Poll Tax (Birdbrook, Essex); Willelmus English, 1381 in Poll Tax (Spalding, Lincs); Izabell English, 1548 in IGI (West Bradenham, Norfolk); James English, 1571 in IGI (Stepney, Middx); Robt. Scotland: Alexander Inglyssh, 1478 in Scotland Calendar; Jeane English, 1653 in IGI (Old Machar, Aberdeens); Helen English, 1655 in IGI (Carrington, Midlothian); Elspeth English, 1660 in IGI (Dundee, Angus); Johne English, 1680 in IGI (Carnock, Fife). 2 Irish: in Ireland, this name was used to denote an Englishman, often being adopted for Irish Aingléis 'Englishman' or through mistranslation for Mac an Ghallóglai, see Gallo.

Early bearers: Edmund Fitz Ewstace Englyshe, 1566 in Fiants Elizabeth §938; William Englishe, kern, 1571–72 in Fiants Elizabeth §2084 (Whitechurch); James Reogh Englishe, 1577 in Fiants Elizabeth §3113 (Solcote); Robert English, 1796 in Flaxgrowers Ireland (Donaghmore, Donegal); Jane English, 1796 in Flaxgrowers Ireland (Killeevy, Armagh); Andrew English, 1796 in Flaxgrowers Ireland (Port, Louth); James Englishbee, 1796 in Flaxgrowers Ireland (Kilsaran, Louth).

Ennals

Variants: Annal

- Current frequencies: GB 107, Ireland 0
- Main GB location 1881: E Anglia: esp. Suffolk

English: of uncertain origin. It is presumably a variant of the now extinct surname Ennall + post-medieval excrescent -s. Parish registers record entries such as Thomasyn Ennell, 1604 in IGI (Tedburn Saint Mary, Devon), Edmund Ennall, 1616 in IGI (Saint Giles Cripplegate, London), and Temperance Hennal, 1705 in IGI (Belaugh, Norfolk). However, the origin of Ennall itself remains obscure. One possibility is that it is a reduced form of a Middle English personal name such as Ernold (see Arnold) or Ernulf (Old English Earnwulf, Old Scandinavian Arnulfr, or of Continental Germanic Arnulf). Compare Walter Ernald, 1338–9 in Norwich Freeman (Ranworth, Norfolk), Johannes Ernald, 1379 in Poll Tax (North Elmham, Norfolk), and Nicholous Ernolf, 1381 in Poll Tax (Witton, Norfolk).

Assimilation of -r to the following -n and loss of final -d or -f would be quite normal in later Middle English and naturally result in spellings like Ennal and Ennel.

Early bearers: Francis Ennalls, 1666 in IGI (Kings Lynn, Norfolk); John Enalls, 1731, Benjamin Hennels, 1772 in IGI (Sudbury, Suffolk); George Ennells, 1755 in IGI (Great Oakley, Essex); Mark Henells, 1883 in IGI (Hilgay, Norfolk).

- English: relationship name perhaps from an unrecorded Middle English female personal name **Evenot* or **Evenet*, a pet form of Eve with the double diminutive suffix -inot or -inet.

English: locative name from Avening (Gloucs), which is recorded as Eveninge, 1221 in Assize Rolls (Gloucs).

Further information: As McKinley notes, Reaney's derivation of the Sussex name from Middle English evening 'an equal, a match' is unlikely in view of the sequence of forms located in medieval Eastbourne. Whether this word was an alternative source of the name elsewhere is unknown.

Early bearers: Philip de Aveninge, 1231 in Feet of Fines (Eastbourne, Sussex); John de Avening, subtaxer for Longtree Hundred, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Gloucs); Walter Evenyng, 1275 in Hundred Rolls (Sussex); Walter Evening, 1302 in Feudal Aids (Sussex); John and Walter Euenyng, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Eastbourne, Sussex); Simon, Ralph, and Robert Euenyng, 1327, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Preston with Hove, Sussex); Thomas Evenyng, 1332 in Subsidy Rolls (Upperton in Eastbourne, Sussex); Thomas Evening, 1611 in IGI (Saint Nicholas at Wade, Kent); Mary Evening, 1650 in IGI (Saint Mary Woolchurch Haw, London); William Evening, 1702 in IGI (Barnard Castle, Durham); Isaac Evening, 1759 in IGI (Bridekirk, Cumb).

1 English: post-medieval variant of Averill.

Compare Walter Averell, 1607, Nicholas Everell, 1652, Jeffry Everall, 1675 in IGI (Beeston, Norfolk); Mary Everall, 1665, Mary Averell, 1682 in IGI (Saint Giles Cripplegate, London); Abraham Averell, 1716, William Everill, 1771 in IGI (Wolverhampton, Staffs).

Early bearers: Anna Everall, 1539 in IGI (Pontesbury, Shrops); Lucy Everell, 1576 in IGI (Ipswich, Suffolk); Elizabeth Everall, 1578 in IGI (Leebotwood, Shrops); Thomas Everall, 1614 in IGI (Worcester, Worcs); Elizabetha Everill, 1635 in IGI (Wisbech, Cambs); Mary Everall, 1665 in IGI (Saint Giles Cripplegate, London); Henr. Everill, 1748 in IGI (Stoke on Trent, Staffs); John Everhill, 1790 in IGI (Upton Snodsbury, Worcs).

2 English: relationship name perhaps from the rare Middle English female personal name Everil(d), representing either Old English Eoforhild or an unrecorded Old French form of its Continental Germanic equivalent Eburhild. As a post-Conquest given name it is apparently attested in a minor place-name Hevereldsshaghe, 1439 in Place-Names of WR Yorks 3, p. 191, at Everill Shaw in Hebden Bridge. The 1379 WR Yorks surname cited below, if derived from the personal name, is unlikely to have any link with the post-medieval Shrops and Staffs surnames cited under (1).

Further information: Modern use of Everil(d) as a given name is first recorded in 16th-century ER Yorks, where it was sometimes assimilated to Averill; compare (1). The name was used by the crypto-Catholic Constable family of Everingham, whose church was at that time dedicated to Saint Everild, an Anglo-Saxon princess reputed, in a 14th-century breviary, to have founded a nunnery near York. Early bearers: Willelmus Eurell', 1379 in Poll Tax (Azerley with Galphay, Mickley, and Braithwaite, WR Yorks).

3 English: locative name perhaps a variant of Deverell, the initial D- being dropped as though it were a reduced form of the Anglo-Norman French preposition de 'of, from'. However, Deverell and its variants are solidly SW England, especially Wilts, with no presence in Shrops or Staffs, where Everall and Everill are concentrated.

Evers

English: locative name from a lost and unidentified place called Everenden, apparently in Kent.

Further information: There does not seem to be any connection with Great Everden Farm in Alkham (Kent), which is recorded as Evering in 1242–3, although it did give rise to a medieval surname: [...] de Everinges, 1211–12 in Red Book of the Exchequer (Kent); Nicholas de Everyng, 1334 in Subsidy Rolls (Folkestone hundred, Kent); Nicholas Evering, 1551 in Canterbury Wills (Probate) (Smeeth, Kent). The development of the place-name from Evering to Everden seems to be very recent, post-dating the 1840 Tithes Award.

Early bearers: William Euerynden, 1429 in Feet of Fines (Leeds, Kent); Bartholomew Everden, 1450 in Patent Rolls (Goudhurst, Kent); James Evyrden or Everynden, 1464 in Canterbury Wills (Probate) (Cranbrook, Kent); Joan Effrynden, 1534–5 in Canterbury Wills (Probate) (Headcorn, Kent); William Everenden, 1551–2 in Canterbury Wills (Probate) (Rolvenden, Kent); Robarte Everndon, 1559 in PROB 11 (Benenden, Kent); Elizabeth Evenden, 1562, Thomas Evernden, 1577, Bregret Everden, 1580 in IGI (Benenden, Kent); Richard Everden, 1566, Katherin Evernden, 1585, John Evenden, 1623 in IGI (Cranbrook, Kent); Daniel Evernden, 1586, Alice Everden, 1639 in IGI (Marden, Kent); William Everdene, 1609, Susan Everden, 1647 in IGI (Ewhurst, Sussex); Francys Evenden, 1611, Steven Everinden, 1631 in IGI (Rolvenden, Kent); John Everndine, 1699 in IGI (Ripe, Sussex).

1 English: locative name perhaps a variant of Devereux without the fused preposition (Old French de); compare Everest.

Further information: Robertus dil Evres, 1381 in Poll Tax (Burtonwood, Lancs) seems to point to a topographical surname from a plural form of late Middle English ever (Old English **yfre* 'edge or brow of a hill or promontory'); see Iver and compare (2). But there is no evidence that this gave rise to a hereditary surname in the W Midlands or N England, unless Robert de Euere, 1334 in Yorks Deeds (Tong, WR Yorks) is an example. He may be an ancestor of Ralph Eure [i.e. Evre] alias Evers, 1539 in York Registry Wills (Ackton, WR Yorks). However, these WR Yorks names may be variants of (de) Evreux with occasional loss of the final consonant.

Derivation from the Old English personal name Eofof (suggested in Reaney and Wilson) is unlikely in view of its rarity as a given name and the absence of any evidence that it gave rise to a surname.

Early bearers: John Euers, 1465–66 in Feet of Fines (Warwick); William Evers, 1470 in Feet of Fines (ER Yorks); Robert Everis, 1495 in York Guild Register; Margareta Evers, 1550 in IGI (Amcotts, Lincs); Elisabeth Evers, 1568 in IGI (Snaith, WR Yorks); Robert Evers, 1584 in IGI (Auckland Saint Andrew, Durham); Anna Evers, 1603 in IGI (Ely, Cambs); John Evers, 1687 in Parish Registers (Rothwell, WR Yorks); Edward Evers, 1688 in IGI (Kidderminster, Worcs).

2 English: de-aspirated variant of Heaver with post-medieval excrescent -s. The name may have been confused with that in (1).

1 German, Dutch, French, Scandinavian, Jewish (Ashkenazic): occupational name from Latin faber 'smith'. There are no grounds for believing that the Medieval Latin word faber, frequently used by clerks to render Middle English smith, became a hereditary English surname. The Middlesex and London surname was brought to England from the 16th century onwards by migrants from northern Europe, where it was fashionable among those with a humanist, classical education to adopt a Latin form of their surname: it is a latinized form of German Schmidt, Dutch Smit, Danish, Norwegian Smidth, Smed, French Fèvre, and so on. The name was also adopted by Jews, many of whom came to England from eastern Europe in the late 19th century. There is no evidence for a similar humanistic practice in 16th- and 17th-century England, though the possibility cannot be ruled out. The Devon surname most likely originated with a migrant from abroad, unless it is a far-flung example of the Yorks locative name under (3) below.

Early bearers: Abraham Faber, 1624 in IGI (Saint Mary Whitechapel, Middx); Nicholas Faber, 1637 in IGI (Plymouth, Devon); Dennis Faber, tailor, born in Prussia, in Census 1851 (Westminster, Middx); Jacob Faber, cooper, born in Germany, in Census 1861 (Sheffield, WR Yorks); John Faber, born in Germany, in Census 1881 (Islington, Middx); Abraham Faber, born in Poland, in Census 1881 (Whitechapel, Middx); Thomas Faber, born in the Netherlands, in Census 1881 (Whitechapel, Middx); Jane Faber, 1897 in Jews' Hospital (Holloway, Middx); Israel Faber, travelling draper, born in Russia, in Census 1901 (Huddersfield, WR Yorks); Franz Faber, baker, born in Germany, in Census 1911 (Shoreditch, Middx); Frits Faber, fruit farmer, born in Amsterdam, in Census 1911 (Hitchin, Herts); Harris Faber, baker, born in Russia, in Census 1911 (Birmingham, Warwicks); Max Faber, tailor, born in Russia, his sons Mendel and Hyman Faber, born in England, in Census 1911 (Manchester, Lancs).

2 Huguenot: occupational name from French Fabre, used in northern France as a semi-learned (latinized) spelling of Favre, Fèvre 'smith', and brought to England by Huguenots. Since the -b- was only a hypercorrect spelling of what was still pronounced as -v-, it is unclear whether this name would have been anglicized to Faber or to Faver and Feaver. See also Lefevre.

Early bearers: Jean Fabre, 1696 in IGI (Threadneedle Street French Huguenot Church, London); Jacques Fabre, 1703 in IGI (Wheeler Street French Huguenot Church, London); Jean Fabre, 1710 in IGI (La Patente French Huguenot Church, London).

Willm Facon, 1607 in IGI (Saddington, Leics). The diphthong of Middle English faucon has been simplified to /a:/, becoming early Modern English /ɛ:/, usually spelled a or ea. 2 English: there is no history of Falcon and its variants in Kent, where Feakin more likely derives from a variant of Ficken (2) with lengthening and lowering of the vowel of Middle English Fikin to give Fekin. It is clearly related to Feakins as a family name and has been absorbed by it.

Early bearers: Susanne Feking, 1716 in IGI (Oare, Kent); Elizh. Anne Feakin, 1759 in IGI (Faversham, Kent); Jane Fekin, 1789 in IGI (Dover, Kent); Henry Feakin, 1805 in IGI (Lynsted, Kent).

German, French: relationship name from a Spanish (Visigothic) personal name (see Ferdinando).

Further information: The surname is of comparatively recent origin in German-speaking countries and in France, for the personal name was not introduced from Spain until the late 15th century. It was taken to Austria by the Habsburg dynasty, among whom it was a hereditary name, and from Austria it spread to France. The Iberian cognates are of more ancient origin and more frequently found today, since the name was much favoured in the royal house of Castile. It owes its popularity in large part to King Ferdinand III of Castile and León (1198–1252), who recaptured large areas of Spain from the Moors and was later canonized.

Early bearers: Johann Dan Fick, 1765 in Parish Registers (IoM); Samuel Fick, 1810, Robert Vick, 1858 in IGI (Kirk German, IoM).

References: Kneen, p. 110.

2 English: (i) nickname perhaps from an unrecorded Middle English **fik*, **fig*, a derivative of Middle English fiken 'to move quickly or restlessly; to shrink, flinch, retreat hurriedly'. The sense might be 'fidgety (person)'; compare Modern English dialect fig and fidge 'to move restlessly, fidget', and see also Fidge and Figg. The definite article in the 1296 form is indicative of a noun or adjective. (ii) nickname alternatively from unrecorded Middle English **fik*, perhaps from Old English gefic 'deceit' or back-formed from Middle English fikel 'deceitful' (Old English ficol). See Ficker.

Early bearers: Semann' Fike, 1197 in Pipe Rolls (Norfolk); Walter le Fyke, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (East Grinstead, Sussex); Laurence Fick, 1296 in Subsidy Rolls (Kingston and East Preston, Sussex); Rogero Fik, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Minterne Magna, Dorset); Johannes Fikke, Ricardus Fykke, 1379 in Poll Tax (Weybourne, Norfolk); Oselinus Fyke, 1379 in Poll Tax (Garveston, Norfolk); Rauff Fykke, 1379 in Poll Tax (Lodsworth, Sussex); Thomas Fick, 1563, Richard Ficke, 1587 in IGI (Saint Minver, Cornwall); Anne Ficke, 1575 in IGI (Compton, Sussex); John Fig, 1645, Robert Fick, 1685 in IGI (Norwich, Norfolk).

3 Norman, English: nickname, relationship name from Old French **fike*, a Norman French variant of Old French **fiche* 'a pointed implement for fixing or transfixing something or someone'. See Fitch. It may also have been used as a personal name. Ficka, 14th cent. in Ancient Deeds vi (Staffs), may not be a reliable form, but the diminutives Fitchett, Fickett, and Ficken fit well with this interpretation, as does the surname of Walterus Fygenot, 1377 in Poll Tax (Little Oakley, Essex), which looks like a double diminutive pet form of Fige, a variant of Fike with voicing of /k/. See Figg. Some of the early bearers in (2) may belong here.

Further information: As further support for this explanation Reaney cites the name of Richard fkberd, 1277 in Cotton Claudius D xiii, who 'probably wore a pointed beard'. Compare also William Feckeberd, 1307 in Subsidy Rolls (Langley, Herts). However, Fike- and Feke- are as likely to represent Middle English fiken, fekien 'to move restlessly, wag, shake'; see (2, i).

Early bearers: Geferd Ficken, 1770 in IGI (Saint Botolph without Aldgate, London); Jno Ficken, 1789 in IGI (Saint George in the East, Middx); Claus Diederick Ficken, 1824 in IGI (Whitechapel, Middx); Friedrich Ficken, born in Hannover (Germany), in Census 1861 (Saint George in the East, Middlesex);

2 English: relationship name from a Middle English, Old French personal name Ficun, presumably a pet form of Fick used as a personal name + the Old French diminutive suffix -un, which later developed to -in and -en. The medieval forms with -g show intervocalic voicing of /k/, but some of the post-medieval spellings -g- or -gg- could alternatively be for dg and the examples may belong with Fidgeon. Early bearers: Richard Ficun, Fycun, 1219 in Assize Rolls (Yorks); Rogerum Ficun, 1230 in Patent Rolls (Northumb); Walterus Figon, Johannes Figon', 1379 in Poll Tax (Broughton, Hants); Robert Fygen, John Fygyn, 1545 in Sussex Wills; Thomas Figger, 1628 in IGI (Saint Michael Cornhill, London); John Figger, 1631 in IGI (Brenzett, Kent); Roger Figin, 1674 in IGI (East Garston, Berks); Edward Figger, 1694 in IGI (Claines, Worcs); Pasco Figen, 1725 in IGI (Westminster, Middx); John Figen, 1785 in IGI

Ficker

- GB frequency 1881: 12
- Main GB location 1881: Middx

English: (i) nickname perhaps for a flatterer or deceiver, from an unrecorded Middle English **fikere*, **fekere*, a derivative of Middle English fiken 'to wag the head fawningly; to deceive by flattery'. Compare Middle English fikelere 'flatterer, deceiver' (from the related verb fikelen) and see Fick (2). Compare Fixter. (ii) occupational name possibly from an unrecorded Middle English **fikere*, **fekere* 'beater' (of metals or of wool, cloth, flax, etc.). Compare Middle Dutch fikere with this sense, a derivative of Middle Dutch ficken 'to beat'. There is no evidence for a Middle English **ficken*, but fucken 'to strike' could be a related form (see OED, at fuck).

Early bearers: William Fikere, 1230 in Pipe Rolls (Kent), John Feker, 1327 in Subsidy Rolls (Cambs); Joseph Ficker, 1775 in IGI (Lawshall, Suffolk); Marsham Ficker, 1818 in IGI (Stepney, Middx).

Flemish, Scottish: relationship name from the Middle Dutch personal name Frieseekin, a pet form of Continental Germanic names beginning in Fris- ('Frisian'). The first known bearer of the personal name in Scotland was Freskyn of Moray, said by Black to have acquired lands in Moray (Murray) from David I, after he suppressed an insurrection there in 1130. As a surname Friskin became Firskin by metathesis and subsequently lost the /r/ before the following /s/, hence the modern forms Fisken and Fiskin.

Further information: In view of his given name, Freskyn of Moray was probably a Fleming. Black comments that he also held lands in Strabrok (now Uphall) in W Lothian and that his son William witnessed a charter by Malcolm IV to Berowald Flandrensis of the land of Innes in 1160.

Early bearers: given names: Fretheskyn, persona (parson) de Dufglas, about 1202–12, Kelso Register (Roxburghs), probably identical with Friskyne decanus Moraviensis (dean of Murray), about 1214–26 in Morton Register, Scotland, and Fertheskyn, decanus ecclesie Moraviensis, about 1218–26 in Arbroath Register; Freskyn de Chen, decanus Aberdonensis, 1321 in Aberdeen Register. surnames: Hugh Fretheskyn, 1204–11 in Arbroath Register (Angus); Henry Friskin, 1618, Hew Friskine, 1632 in IGI (Perth, Perth); Jeane Fiskine, 1653, Hellen Fiskin, 1745 in IGI (Perth, Perth); Andrew Friskine, 1671 in IGI (Findo Gask, Perth); Patrick Friskin, 1671 in IGI (Duns, Berwick); John Friskin, 1708 in IGI (Hexham, Northumb); Ann Fiskin, 1717 in IGI (Redgorton, Perth); Marjery Frisking, 1745 in IGI (Foulden, Berwick); William Firskine, 1748 in IGI (Kinnoull, Perth); John Fiskin, 1778 in IGI (Tynemouth, Northumb); Ann Fiskan, 1783 in IGI (Errol, Perth).

1 Norman, English: nickname, relationship name from Old French **fiche*, perhaps 'a pointed implement for fixing or transfixing something or someone' (such as a lance?), a derivative of Old French fichier 'to fix, fasten, pin on, stick into, pierce'. Compare Modern French fiche 'peg, pin'. It may also have been used as a personal name; compare Fick, Fickett, Fitchett, Ficken and Figgins.

Further information: Reaney remarks that 'as Hugh Malet is said to have abandoned for a time his nickname "little hammer" in favour of Fichet (see Mallet), fiche must have been used of a pointed weapon, a spear or lance, and Fitch and Fitchett of a spearman or a knight famous for his exploits with the lance'. Use of Fiche as a personal name is possibly implied by diminutive personal name forms such as Fechet (see Fitchett) and Fechel, attested in Fechel de Fercalahn, 1225–50 in Dublin Documents. The latter is perhaps the source of the now extinct surname Fetchell (evidenced in Lancs and Kent in the 1881 census), and of the medieval surnames of Alfwinus Figgel, 1166 in Pipe Rolls (Kent), and Richard Figel, 1279 in Hundred Rolls (Beds), with intervocalic voicing of ch to dg.

Fitter

- Current frequencies: GB 432, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 414

English: (i) occupational name from Middle English fitter, of uncertain meaning. It might be related to Middle English fitered 'ragged', with reference to the decoration of clothes with slashes or streamers, in which case fitter could be a clipped form of **fitterer*, perhaps a term for a tailor specializing in ornamental clothing. Compare Old Scandinavian fit 'hem (of a garment)'. (ii) occupational name, alternatively a derivative of Middle English fetten, occasionally fitten (Old English gefetian) 'to fetch or obtain (something or someone)'. Reaney and Wilson note that in northern English dialect fitter meant one 'who vends and loads coals, coal broker' (1678 in OED) and 'one who fits ships with cargoes'. Exactly what a medieval fitter might have provided is an open question. (iii) occupational name, alternatively a derivative of Middle English fitten 'to be fit and proper' (related to Middle English fit 'suitable'), perhaps used transitively 'to make (something) fit', in which case a fitter might have been a joiner, a furnisher, or a tailor, for example. (iv) occupational name, alternatively a derivative of Middle English fitten 'to organize or deploy (someone or something)', recorded only with reference to the marshalling of troops in battle but it may have had wider applications. Compare (ii) and (iii). MED suggests that it might be related to Old Scandinavian fitja 'to knit', which raises a slight possibility that fitter could have denoted one who knitted yarn or thread for hosiery, etc., but there is no evidence for a Middle English **fitten* 'to knit'.

Topographical surnames in -er occur mostly in S England, especially in Sussex, Kent, and Surrey, and were interchangeable with names beginning in atte. #### Variants: Flathers, Flatter, Flatters

- Current frequencies: GB 226, Ireland 0
- GB frequency 1881: 238
- Main GB location 1881: WR Yorks

English: of uncertain origin. In 19th-century Yorks dialect, flather had the sense ‘flattery, nonsense, palaver’ (English Dialect Dictionary); it is probably a reduced form of Middle English, Old French flaterie ‘flattery’. If the change in consonant from t to th occurred in Middle English, it is possible that the surname represents Middle English flater, flatour (Old French flateor) ‘flatterer’, but more evidence is needed to support this explanation.

Further information: There is no evidence to justify Weekley’s and Wilson’s derivation from an unrecorded Middle English word **flathe* (+ -er), supposedly a variant of Middle English flatho(u)n, flathen ‘flawn’, a sort of pie, cake, or bun (see Flawn). It is also doubtful if a hypothetical **Flathoner*, ‘flawn baker’ (compare Flanner) would have become Flather in Middle English.

Early bearers: Simon Flather, about 1265 in Calverley Charters (Yorks); John Flathir, 1324 in South Lancs in Reign of Edward II; William Flather, 1465 in Court Rolls (Pudsey), printed in Parish Registers (Calverley, WR Yorks); John Fladder, 1530 in York Freeman’s Register; Margret Flather, 1560 in IGI (Bradfield, WR Yorks); Mathew Flather, 1580 in IGI (Calverley, WR Yorks); Thomas Flather, 1581 in IGI (Stratford upon Avon, Warwicks); Willam Flather, 1647 in IGI (Reading, Berks); Joseph Flatter, 1706 in IGI (Whichford, Warwicks).

2 English: (i) nickname from Anglo-Norman French flavel 'rattle, clapper (especially one carried by a leper); fan, winnowing fan', perhaps for a leper, or for a winner. Some early bearers may belong with (i). (ii) locative name perhaps from Flyford Flavell (Worcs), recorded as Flavel 1190–1428. Flavel is an Anglo-Norman form of the name Flyford that was added to it for distinction from nearby Grafton Flyford. There is no specific evidence to indicate that this place-name has contributed to the surname.
